PRESIDENT'S Message

DEAR MEMBERS:

The calendar finally has found its way to September, which means that the FCBA's Fall Season officially has commenced! This means that each and every member of the FCBA will have the opportunity to participate in a wide range of brown bag lunches, Continuing Legal Education courses, receptions, and other special events that have been organized by various FCBA members, Committees and Chapters.

For example, in September alone, the various FCBA Committees are hosting a combined total of 11 brown bag and other lunch events covering a wide range of issues and opportunities, from meet and greets with FCC staff, to discussions about emergency communications policy and online piracy initiatives. September also will feature our first roundtable discussion of the year, hosted by the Privacy and Data Security Committee and featuring Ambassador Phil Verveer, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State and U.S. Coordinator for International Communications and Information Policy. And September also will play host to our first CLE of the season, organized by the State and Local Practice Committee on the timely subject of universal service and intercarrier compensation reform.

September also is a good time to renew your membership in the FCBA, if you have not already. As many of you know, the FCBA adopted an online dues renewal system two years ago. Although most members have embraced the online dues renewal process, a few holdouts remain! If you have not already renewed your membership, I ask that you do so immediately so that you continue to receive information about and have access to all of the terrific FCBA events that will occur over the next several months. Timely renewal also is important if you wish to continue to be included in the FCBA Directory.

In short, we have much to which to look forward in September. If you ever have any questions or concerns about the FCBA, I encourage you to contact me by phone at 202-662-5444 or via e-mail at ydori@cov.com.

Interested in Hosting an FCBA event?

The FCBA greatly appreciates the support of our members' firms and companies who provide space for our brown bag lunches, committee meetings, and CLE Seminars throughout the year. We are, however, always looking for new locations that can host FCBA events. We will be experimenting with some new presentation technology in future CLE seminars, which require more technical support than we have needed in the past.

In general terms, we need conference rooms that can seat at least 30 (more if possible) people at tables for brown bag lunches and committee meetings and conference rooms that can seat a minimum of 60 for CLE seminars. Firms and companies hosting brown bag lunches provide beverages and desserts; firms and companies hosting CLE seminars provide beverages and snacks. CLE seminars are generally held from 6:00 – 8:30 p.m. Additionally, for CLE seminars we need facilities that can provide technology support for microphones for as many as six speakers on a panel, the ability to tie the house sound system into a teleconference bridge, video projection capabilities for PowerPoint presentations, and access to the internet for presentations by speakers. CHAIRMAN'S DINNER

Commerce Department may be directly invited to attend the dinner as guests of individuals and organizations purchasing tables or tickets. In most cases, individuals and organizations may issue invitations to the Chairman's Dinner without the involvement of the FCBA. Some agencies, departments and branches of the Federal Government, however, apply additional stipulations above the regulations issued by the Office of Government Ethics. Individuals who have signed the Administration's Ethics pledge cannot accept invitations from most registered lobbying organizations or registered lobbyists. While this event has qualified as a widely-attended-gathering in previous years, each FCC employee is required to obtain individual ethics clearance based on matters they are working on within the Commission. Employees of the Commerce Department are required to obtain individual ethics clearance through the Department's Office of General Counsel. Invitations to Members of Congress, Congressional Staff, and employees of the Department of State must be issued by the FCBA. Contact the FCBA for additional information.

The 2011 Chairman's Dinner

The reservation form for tables and individual tickets will be in the October newsletter.

Rocky Mountain Chapter

Monday, October 17,
3:00 – 7:30 p.m.
“Reflections
on Satellite Communications”

Presented by the Silicon Flatirons in cooperation with the FCBA Rocky Mountain Chapter

Location: Wittemyer Courtroom, Wolf Law Building, University of Colorado

In many discussions of communications technology, policy, and business, satellite communications is an afterthought. But since the “open skies” policies spearheaded by the Office of Telecommunications Policy’s Tom Whitehead and introduced by the FCC in the early 1970s, satellite communications has fundamentally changed all segments of the telecommunications industry - video, voice, and data communications. In the case of video communications, the advent of competitive satellite services fueled the growth of cable networks like HBO and TBS. In the case of voice communications, satellite technology challenged AT&T’s long lines - and undersea cable - as the dominant mode of reaching distant locales. More recently, satellite communications, in the form of Direct Broadcast Satellite (DBS), challenged the dominant cable industry, deploying an all-digital system before the cable companies did. Finally, satellite communications is providing broadband Internet access to millions of subscribers around the world.

The rise and continuing role of satellite communications remains an underappreciated topic. Recently, however, policymakers have devoted more attention to satellite communications as a part of spectrum policy. Much of this attention reflects the discussion around Lightsquared’s plans to deploy a more terrestrial based system under the “ancillary terrestrial component” regime, raising concerns from the GPS community as to interference with the operations of GPS systems. At the same time, DISH Network is taking a greater interest in acquiring spectrum devoted for satellite communications, recently investing $2.9 billion in purchases of bankrupt satellite companies. It remains to be seen how

DISH will use this spectrum, but one report suggested that it now “has pieces it can use to offer TV video programming in the home via satellite, through the Internet, or wirelessly outside the home to smartphones, tablets or cars.”

This conference will address the changing face of satellite communications, evaluating its overall impact, and placing it into context. To do so, it will bring together a range of leading policymakers, policy practitioners, and industry leaders, evaluating the international and domestic trends in satellite communications, with particular attention to its role in broadband communications. In so doing, it will seek to aid policymakers in what the Washington Post called Tom Whitehead’s principal mission - “to get the federal government to become ‘more anticipatory’ in addressing rapid technological changes.”

COMMITTEES AND CHAPTERS in the Spotlight

Midwest Chapter

The Midwest Chapter is developing a calendar of events for the remainder of 2011 and for 2012. As in the past, the Chapter expects to host several events to highlight current communications issues of interest to a broad spectrum of members. Those events will include speakers from government, industry, and private practice.

In 2010-2011, Chapter co-chairs Robert Neumann, Robert Reiland, Grant Spellmeyer, and Lisa Washburn organized and hosted several events. Highlights include a February program sponsored by Kelly Drye focusing on the FCC's Open Internet proceeding and a September panel discussion where Northwestern's Kellogg School of Management and Law School faculty addressed key issues facing the communications industry from a business, regulatory, and legal perspective.

For the 2011-2012 year, Lisa Washburn of the Tribune Company (EWashburn@tribune.com) is returning as co-chair and is joined by Sara Cole of TDS Telecommunications (sara.cole@tdstelecom.com). The co-chairs welcome program ideas, speaker suggestions, and other expressions of interest from current and potential new members.

In MEMORIAM

James J. Freeman (1940-2011)

James J. Freeman, a communications lawyer for decades, passed away July 13 in Bethesda, Maryland at 70 after a short illness. He is survived by a large and loving family, including his wife Carol, their adult children M'liss, Jeff and Joe, and eight grandchildren. Services were held at the Church of the Little Flower in Bethesda.

Jim was a graduate of Gonzaga High School in D.C., Holy Cross College and Harvard Law School. On graduating from Harvard in the mid sixties, Jim began his legal practice in the communications group of Pierson Ball and Dowd, a D.C. firm with its roots in the era immediately after the passage of the Communications Act of 1934. First as an associate and then partner, he pursued a varied practice at Pierson Ball and Dowd and its successor Reed Smith Shaw & McClay until 1997, when he and two friends joined the Washington office of Kelley Drye & Warren. Jim retired from full-time practice in 2005, continuing occasional consulting from his new Eastern Shore home.

Jim's career as a communications lawyer spanned not only various regulatory areas but also related technical, financial and tax matters. He worked on radio and television regulatory and corporate transaction matters for a wide variety of businesses, including large group owners such as Gaylord and RKO General. He became actively involved in litigating comparative hearings for entities seeking to enter broadcasting, later contributing his litigation talents to a number of the RKO comparative hearings.

As broadcasting became more deregulated, Jim developed expertise in other areas, including assisting in filing the initial comparative applications for cellular telephone systems and leading the initial litigation before the Commission. He later developed a federal and state practice addressing entry, transfers of control, debt financings, and the like for entities ranging from pay phone providers to CLECs to interexchange carriers.

Jim did not seek to follow convention. Mid-life, he bought and rode to work on a roaring motorcycle. Jim was honored by his younger colleagues at Pierson Ball and Dowd with a motorcycle jacket.

The jacket, which Jim wore proudly, said "WIDE LOAD."

Jim's former colleagues note that Jim relished his role as a mentor, both professionally and in his personal life, through Catholic youth organizations.

The counterpoint to Jim's irreverent humor was his passionate and decades-long attendance at Shakespeare Theater, National Symphony and other performing arts venues. He was a student of the classics and loved to read. He equally loved to garden, raising vegetables and flowers for at least the last 30 years.

Jim's wife Carol and their children were the foundation of his life. He viewed retirement as the opportunity not only to focus on his varied hobbies but also to share more time – and his sense of humor – with his family, and especially his grandchildren, thus spending more time with those very special people who had graced his life, and whose lives he graced.

A Message from the FCBA Foundation Chair

The new Board of Trustees is in place, and we started the new FCBA Foundation year with a retreat on July 14, focused on developing a strategic path forward. The Board had the benefit of last year's Task Force recommendations, the Foundation Survey results, and the combination of former and new Board members' perspectives to consider how to evolve and improve the Foundation to serve you, our members.

Jennifer Warren

First, we thank you for your responses to the Foundation Survey. One significant and positive take-away is your strong support for the Foundation and its overall efforts. The Board is actively working on incorporating your feedback into our planning and future activities. Second, in order to ensure the broadest reflection of the FCBA Foundation membership into the Foundation's planning, we have established 4 new committees, which are co-chaired by one Trustee and one non-Trustee, and open to membership from all interested FCBA members. Please take a moment, and consider participating in helping shape your Foundation through participation in one of the committees – and if you are interested in more information, please contact either co-chair, or myself.

Volunteer for Martha's Table on September 25

Many of us are stretched for time these days, but why not consider spending a few hours on a Sunday to help the FCBA Foundation's partner charity? For many years now, the FCBA has been providing volunteers to Martha's Table. This organization relies on the good work of our members each month, so grab a friend, colleague or family member and join your fellow FCBA volunteers!

Martha's Table feeds hundreds of hungry, homeless adults and children on the streets of Washington daily, through its mobile soup kitchen. Children and friends are also welcome. We will begin at 10:00 a.m. and work until 1:00 p.m. Martha's Table is located in a yellow building at 2114 Fourteenth Street, NW, in the District, near the intersection of 14th and U Streets. On-street parking is available. Volunteers are asked to bring food if possible, (e.g., cold cuts, bread, peanut butter, jelly, vegetables and potatoes) because the center often runs out of donated food.

The FCBA volunteers on the last Sunday of every month, so mark your calendars now. If you are able to volunteer on September 25, October 30, or November 27, please contact Howard Weiss at 703-812-0471 -- weiss@fhhlaw.com.

FCBA REQUESTS PROPOSALS FROM U.S. LAW SCHOOLS TO HOST THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS LAW JOURNAL

For many years, the FCBA has contracted with various U.S. law schools to publish the Federal Communications Law Journal. The FCBA's Law Journal Committee, in close coordination with the FCBA's President and Executive Committee, is issuing the Request for Proposals set forth below seeking submissions from accredited U.S. law schools interested in serving as the host institution for the Journal beginning with academic year 2012-2013. Submissions from interested law schools are due September 15, 2011. We encourage FCBA members to help publicize the RFP process. If you think your alma mater or another law school might be interested in making a proposal to host the Journal, please make that school aware of the RFP.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS BAR ASSOCIATION REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS HOST INSTITUTION OF THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS LAW JOURNAL

The Federal Communications Bar Association ("FCBA"), the official bar association of the communications industry, is undertaking an assessment of potential Host Institutions for its academic journal, the Federal Communications Law Journal ("Journal"). The Journal explores important issues of telecommunications law and policy in analytically rigorous and topical ways and, consistent with past practice, is to be published three times during each academic year. The copyright of the Journal is held, and will continue to be held, by the FCBA.

To this end, the FCBA is issuing this Request for Proposals ("RFP") to solicit proposals from accredited U.S. law schools to host the Journal. Potential candidate law schools should be able to demonstrate the following criteria:

- The law school has a commitment to a telecommunications curriculum such that students working on the Journal will both have some familiarity of the issues and be provided with active guidance from the law school's faculty.

- The law school will provide at least one faculty advisor who has a proven record of expertise and scholarship in the area of telecommunications law and policy. This expertise is essential to help the students evaluate the quality of potential submissions and to provide crucial editorial advice.
- The faculty advisor(s) should be familiar with and active in the telecommunications law and policy debate in Washington, D.C., such that the faculty advisor(s) can provide students with guidance as to which potential submissions are most timely, relevant, and useful to FCBA members and others.
- The faculty advisor(s) will be responsible for working with the FCBA Law Journal Committee and other FCBA members to discuss upcoming issues of the Journal, as well as working with the FCBA to hold conferences, symposia and the like that can result in the publication of the proceedings in the Journal.
- In the event a new host school is selected, the Selectee and its faculty advisor(s) should be able to demonstrate that school's willingness and ability to work cooperatively with the incumbent host school to ensure a smooth transition.
- Law schools submitting proposals are encouraged to state their vision for the Journal and provide any information they think would be pertinent for consideration by the FCBA.

Cost allocation between the FCBA and the host school is as follows:

- Host School: The host school will contribute in-kind services such as office space, library access, web design and hosting, and administrative costs. The students' time would be volunteered.
- FCBA: The FCBA will contribute to the production, printing, and mailing costs at a rate of $2.50 per FCBA member to ensure that each of its members will receive a personal hard copy of each published issue of the Journal.

- Host School and the FCBA will split the residual income from sales of non-FCBA member subscriptions (e.g., law libraries) and from electronic databases such as Westlaw & Lexis on an "as agreed to" basis. Potential candidate schools are encouraged in their submissions to propose a reasonable percentage division of residual income.

Time Frames for the RFP Process:

- Issuance of RFP: May 2011
- Submissions Due: September 15, 2011
- Site Visits (if any) and Consideration of Finalists: October 30, 2011 – February 1, 2012. Schools that are chosen as finalists may be asked to pay expenses for FCBA Journal Committee members to visit on-site.
- Selectee Announced: February 1, 2012 (thus allowing transition to occur during the remainder of the academic year while students are still on campus)
- In the event a new host school is selected, control of the Journal would pass to the Selectee at the end of the 2011-2012 academic year. Beginning with the 2012-2013 academic year, the Selectee will publish the Journal three times each academic year.
