Nominations for the 2017 FCBA Election

Pursuant to Article V, Section 21 of the Association’s Bylaws, the FCBA Nominations Committee is beginning the process of preparing the ballot for the 2017 annual election. Positions to be filled are: President-Elect; Secretary; Assistant Secretary; Assistant Treasurer; Chapter Representative to the Executive Committee; Delegate to the American Bar Association; three (3) members of the Executive Committee; three (3) members of the Nominations Committee; and four (4) FCBA Foundation Trustees.

The first step of this process is for members to notify the Nominations Committee of their interest in being nominated, or to recommend other members for consideration for nomination. Nominations should be sent to FCBA Past President and Chair of the Nominations Committee, Chris Wright, via email to cwright@hwglaw.com, with a copy sent to kerry@fcba.org. Please give the name of the member to be considered for nomination, a brief statement about why the individual is being nominated, and the office they are being recommended for by Tuesday, January 17, 2017.

The Nominations Committee will present a slate of nominations to the membership via email and the in newsletter. At that point, members will have the option of making additional nominations as outlined in the Bylaws.

2017 National Telecommunications Moot Court Seeks Practitioners to Serve as Judges

The FCBA and The Catholic University of America, Columbus School of Law will co-sponsor the 2016 National Telecommunications Moot Court Competition (“NatTel”) to be held Friday, February 24 and Saturday, February 25. The competition seeks attorneys to serve as Judges on Saturday, February 25 for briefs and oral arguments. Briefs Judges will receive submitted briefs on or around Friday, February 3 and they will be due back on Wednesday, February 22. A score sheet provided by the NatTel Committee will guide Briefs Judges in grading the briefs and allocating points. Oral Arguments Judges are needed for the competition rounds on Saturday, February 25. If you would like to volunteer as a Brief or Oral Arguments Judge, please contact Susannah Larson at slarson@hwglaw.com. No expertise is necessary.
CLE Seminars

Monday, February 6, 6:00 – 8:15 p.m.
Recent Developments in TCPA Litigation

The FCBA Judicial Practice Committee will host a CLE on Monday, February 6 from 6:00 – 8:15 p.m. entitled “Recent Developments in TCPA Litigation.” This program will be held at Wiley Rein LLP, 1776 K Street, NW.

The CLE will consist of two parts. First, Shay Dvoretzky, the Jones Day partner who recently presented oral argument on behalf of petitioners in the appeal of the FCC’s 2015 TCPA Declaratory Ruling, will provide practical insights on oral advocacy before the D.C. Circuit and an expert look at the TCPA issues at stake in the appeal. Second, a panel of veteran TCPA litigators will discuss the latest trends from the trial courts, where the surge of TCPA suits shows no sign of slowing.

To register, click here or go to the FCBA Website – Calendar of Events or use the form on page 22.

Agenda
6:00 – 6:05 p.m.
WELCOME AND INTRODUCTIONS

6:05 – 7:05 p.m.
AN ADVOCATE’S PERSPECTIVE ON THE TCPA APPEAL

Speaker:
Shay Dvoretzky, Partner, Jones Day

Wednesday, February 8, 3:00 – 5:15 p.m.
Securing Spectrum: Unlicensed Technologies, Connected Vehicles, and Privacy

The FCBA Engineering and Technical and Wireless Telecommunications Committees will host a CLE on Wednesday, February 8 from 3:00 – 5:15 p.m. entitled “Securing Spectrum: Unlicensed Technologies, Connected Vehicles, and Privacy.” This program will be held at a location to be determined in Washington, DC.

Developments in the 5.9 GHz band are bringing security issues into focus. As unlicensed communications and connected vehicle spectrum needs expand, policy makers, industry leaders and public interest groups are discussing how best to secure their transmissions from spectral interference and data breaches. How will latency sensitive transportation infrastructure and unlicensed services coexist in the U-NII-4 band? How can regulatory decisions support innovation and commerce without impairing public safety or privacy? This CLE addresses transportation technologies and digital privacy against a backdrop of communications law and jurisdiction, in the context of unlicensed technologies and dedicated short-range communications (DSRC). Speakers will provide regulatory updates, share insights, and suggest approaches to balancing current and future needs of multiple spectrum users.

To register, click here or go to the FCBA Website – Calendar of Events or use the form on page 22.

Agenda
3:00 – 3:05 p.m.
WELCOME AND INTRODUCTIONS

3:05 – 3:30 p.m.
Julius Knapp, Chief, Office of Engineering & Technology, Federal Communications Commission

3:30 – 4:15 p.m.
STATE OF PLAY: CONNECTED VEHICLES AND UNLICENSED TECHNOLOGIES IN THE 5.9 GHZ BAND

Access to spectrum is necessary for connected vehicle communications and for innovative unlicensed uses. The FCC has committed to complete testing of potential 5.9 GHz spectrum sharing technologies by January 15, 2017. The NHTSA has proposed to enable vehicle-to-vehicle (V2V) communication technology on all new light-duty vehicles. Will commercial applications, such as wireless LTE and new radar technologies, improve highway safety as well as, or in place of, DSRC infrastructure? How should applications that are not safety-of-life be defined and addressed? This panel will provide regulatory updates, discuss opportunities for development of the U-NII-4 band, and consider beneficial paths forward.

Moderator:
Angela Giancarlo, Government Relations Partner, Mayer Brown LLP

Committee and Chapter Sign-Up

If you would like to sign up for or update the committee(s)/chapter(s) you are on, fill out the form on page 24 of this newsletter or download it at http://www.fcba.org/wp-content/uploads/2015/08/FY16-Committee-Form.pdf and send it back to the FCBA, 1020 19th Street, NW, Suite 325, Washington, DC 20036, fax: 202-293-4317, or email: megan@fcba.org.
Speakers:
Erin McGrath, Legal Advisor, Office of Commissioner O’Rielly, Federal Communications Commission
Ari Fitzgerald, Partner, Hogan Lovells US LLP
John Kuzin, Vice President and Regulatory Counsel, Qualcomm
Dr. Mark Cooper, Director of Research, Consumer Federation of America

4:15 – 4:25 p.m.
BREAK

4:25 – 5:15 p.m.
CYBERSECURITY, PRIVACY, AND COLLISION AVOIDANCE
Will DSRC communications be safe and secure? Will commercial vehicle systems architectures and telematics expose consumer information to unacceptable digital threat levels, or is cybersecurity sufficiently strong? This panel will discuss government and industry efforts addressing concerns that connected vehicle technologies, through onboard services such as mobile payments, advertising, and infotainment, could provide attack vectors for malware, personal data theft, and vehicle collisions.

Moderator:
Megan Brown, Partner, Wiley Rein LLP

Speakers:
Harry Lightsey, Executive Director, Global Connected Customer, Public Policy, General Motors
Steve Bayless, Vice President, Technology & Markets / Senior Director of Telecommunications & Telematics, Intelligent Transportation Society of America
John Gasparini, Policy Fellow, Public Knowledge

FCBA Foundation 2017 College Scholarship Program: Application Now Available

The FCBA Foundation is gearing up for its 2017 College Scholarship Program, which provides financial assistance and laptop computers to DC public high school students to assist them in attending college. For over 21 years, the Foundation has helped over 200 local high school students attend college with scholarship awards ranging from several thousand dollars up to $28,000, payable over four years.

The Foundation committed over $271,000 to its 2016 scholarship class, which was comprised of 20 graduating seniors who were selected because of their academic achievements and service to school and community.

The Foundation’s updated web-based application lets interested high school seniors, who are matriculating to college next fall, apply for a scholarship online. The application is available at https://fcbafoundationcollege.awardspring.com.

The deadline for submission of applications is Friday, February 24, 2017. The Foundation plans to conduct interviews of promising applicants during the week of April 17, 2017 timeframe, and to notify successful applicants regarding their scholarship awards by mid-May 2017.

If you have any questions about the application or the FCBA Foundation College Scholarship program, please contact the FCBA offices at 202-293-4000 or by email at starsha@fcba.org.

FCBA Foundation Gearing up for Its 2017 Law School Scholarship Program

The FCBA Foundation is gearing up for its 2017 Law School Scholarship Program, which provides financial assistance to rising second or third year students currently enrolled in accredited law schools in the United States who have a demonstrated interest in pursuing a career in communications law. The scholarships range from $2,500 – $5,000 each, and will be payable to the applicable law school in one lump sum to help the student with tuition or other education-related expenses.

The Foundation’s updated web-based application lets interested law school students apply for a scholarship online. The application will be available by early February at https://fcbafoundationlaw.awardspring.com.

The deadline for submission of applications will be Monday, April 3, 2017. The Foundation plans to notify successful applicants regarding their scholarship awards by Monday, May 15, 2017.

If you have any questions about the application, please contact the FCBA offices at 202-293-4000 or by email at starsha@fcba.org.

FCBA Foundation Will Soon Accept Applications for Its 2017 Law School Summer Stipend Program

For the 24th consecutive year, the FCBA Foundation will award stipends to law students from its Chairman Robert E. Lee Scholarship and Internship Fund. Chairman Lee served as a Commissioner of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) for 28 years and was instrumental in the early development of color television, among other contributions to federal communications policy.

The program provides stipends of up to $5,000 to outstanding law students employed as unpaid summer interns in positions with the FCC and other federal, state and local government agencies with a connection to the communications industry (i.e., broadcasting, cable, information technology, television, telephony, satellite, and wireless). Applications will be accepted online starting January 15th through March 24th, 2017. No exceptions will be made for late filed applications.

In addition, the Foundation will select one outstanding intern among those chosen to receive and additional stipend for the summer: the Max Paglin Award. Mr. Paglin was the former General Counsel and Executive Director of the FCC and the founder of the Golden Jubilee Commission on Telecommunications, which compiled a definitive history of the Communications Act.

The Foundation considers funding from other sources in making award decisions and generally will adjust its stipend

To Update Your Membership Contact Information

We’d like to remind everyone that if they have any changes to their contact information that they notify the FCBA, megan@fcba.org. In order to keep a cohesive look to both our online and hard copy directories, we do not allow members to make any changes to their contact information themselves. Also note that we do not include prefixes or titles in any of our member listings. We appreciate your cooperation in this matter. Thank you.
awards so that a recipient’s total funding for the internship will not exceed $7,000.

Requirements
Students must be enrolled in an ABA accredited law school, in good academic standing, and have a pending or accepted application for an unpaid internship with a federal, state or local government entity.

Students will be selected on the basis of:

- Essays – 30 points
- Resume and Recommendations – 25 points
- Academic Merit (including relevant coursework, certificate programs, journals and clinics) – 25 points
- Nature of Work – 10 points
- Financial Need – 10 points

Get to Know an FCBA MEMBER

Jeffrey Carlisle

By: Laura Phillips

Jeffrey Carlisle has had a distinct and varied career in private practice, at the Federal Communications Commission, with companies of different sizes and outlooks. Most recently, after an exciting number of years as the chief regulatory officer for LightSquared, now Ligado, Jeff has launched his solo law practice. I was pleased to sit down and share a drink with him to recall some of the highlights of his career thus far and insights he was willing to share for the benefit of the FCBA newsletter readership.

Q: What attracted you to the field of communications?

A: When I was in graduate school at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, I took a course on the international law and policy of communications that was taught by Stuart Brotman. I was really interested in how corporations built their own private networks at the time, but then started learning about this whole world of issues. I later had the good fortune to be Stuart’s research assistant, and that is what started me on the road in communications.

Q: Have things unfolded in your career more or less the way you planned?

A: I can’t say I’ve been very good at planning my own career, so I would offer that caution to anyone thinking of trying to model it. The beginning of my legal career was fairly standard in that I did a summer associate stint at O’Melveny & Myers, which is a Los Angeles-based law firm that had a DC office. I returned as a first year associate. At that time the firm was handling a number of large broadcast transactions and my first big communications project was working on getting FCC approvals for the acquisition of Cap Cities/ABC by Disney. Before long the Telecommunications Act of 1996 was passed and those who were around in those days recall how much work there was to do in implementation. I was de facto living in the Midwest as a second-year associate doing interconnection arbitrations for GTE. I also did some interesting international telecom law work for the Republic of Ghana on behalf of the World Bank.

In 1999, a friend from Fletcher offered me a job with his startup. He understood early on the potential of competitive broadband, and we worked to bring broadband connections to apartment buildings. I worked with the company for about a year and a half and we were among the first residential VoIP providers. Ultimately, the company ran into headwinds that couldn’t be overcome, as there were broader issues about the viability of CLECs and competition as it was then evolving, but it was a great experience and I also had time to start my own practice.

My next career opportunity happened because I was approached by a former colleague, Michael Powell, about working at the FCC during the George W. Bush administration. I was Deputy Chief and later Bureau Chief of the Wireline Competition Bureau. At the time, the FCC was struggling through matters like unbundling and the beginnings of broadband policy, and I was very lucky and proud to work with FCC staff on those matters.

I have to say working at the FCC is the best job anyone could have in the world, and that certainly was the case in 2001. I was 32 years old and I was in the middle of everything by my second week at the FCC. Where else do you get to go to work and meet Vint Cerf one day, Lawrence Lessig the next, and have an almost daily exposure to the best thinking on the hardest issues? I guess the useful lesson about all of this is that timing is key -- while it’s important to create your own opportunities, sometimes you just happen into something at the right time.

While I had a few really tough days at the Commission, I had so many great days that I just recall the time with great affection. I think the longest lasting thing that stays with you about the job was the incredible FCC staff. I saw people come in as young professionals and develop so quickly. It was a great experience and I was so proud to be a part of it. But times change and I did with them.

After I left the FCC, I had the opportunity to start the DC government relations office for Lenovo, after it had acquired IBM’s ThinkPad business. It was a bit of a break from telecommunications for me, because it involved a whole different set of issues that come up when you're moving real physical things around the world – trade policy, export controls, e-waste, and so on.

Telecommunications pulled me back in, though, and I started with LightSquared – then SkyTerra – in early 2009. And for me that was a pretty long gig – 7 years. In a way it brought me full circle, back to international issues. And of course there were a fair amount of domestic policy issues as most folks in town know, and some have also had the pleasure of working on.

Now, I really feel like a lot of what I’ve done over the last 20 or so years has kind of led to what I’m doing now – having the ability to pick some really interesting projects in wireline, wireless and satellite, and working with people who have been friends and colleagues for a long, long time. So I guess I couldn’t have planned it better.

Q: What’s something or someone that has surprised or impressed you during your career and why?

A: Someone who left a deep impression on me was A.B. Culvahouse. He was the Managing Partner of the DC office while I was at O’Melveny; and was later Chair of the firm. I had the good fortune to work with him on a handful of projects, and, to me, he’s just the... epitome of an attorney. He was incredibly professional, deeply knowledgeable, and a real commanding presence. I may not have planned my career very carefully, but I was smart enough to ask A.B. for advice from time to time and his advice always stood me in good stead.

One thing that's impressed me is how generous folks in the communications bar are with their time and help. Every time I've reached out to anyone in the bar to discuss ideas, get a sanity check or to ask for help on a career decision, folks have been wonderfully helpful. Frankly, that kind of help is something I wish I'd taken more advantage of in my career, and believe new lawyers should certainly do so.

Q: What do you enjoy reading in your spare time?

A: I just finished Tim Wu’s “The Attention Merchants: The Epic Scramble to Get Inside our Heads.” I recently read Elizabeth Greenwood’s “Playing Dead: A Journey Through the World of Death Fraud,” which is a great read and makes a convincing case that faking your own death is not really a good solution for your problems (who knew?). In general, I have a fairly broad-based appetite for nonfiction, short stories, and read a good bit of science fiction. I've been really engrossed in some Raymond Carver short stories recently, and rereading Henry Green, who I wish had written more. A few years ago I got on a kick of reading about Arctic exploration, starting with a huge work by Pierre Breton and will now pick a few books on the subject every year.

Q: Can you share a perspective on pitfalls to avoid or other career advice for those who are just getting started in the communications field?

A: If I could counsel my younger self, I would say just be a bit more introspective about what you are doing and why. It’s your time and if you are enjoying it you’ll do better work. I would tell myself to just take time to get to know others well and to network with them, even if you may think you don’t have the time or it’s not necessary. You always have the time and it’s always necessary. You need to do what you think is best ultimately when it comes to your career decisions, but it’s always good to get advice and help of others. You should not assume that asking for that advice would be irritating to the people you approach. I could have saved myself from much needless anxiety if I had taken this counsel. I would also say be generous and help others too.

Q: What's something interesting about you that people are not generally aware of you that are willing to share?

A: I am a great museum buff and enjoy museums in Washington and wherever I go. When I plan trips I always try and see the local art museums – you can find remarkable things tucked away where you least expect them. Over time I’ve developed a greater appreciation for and knowledge about classical and modern art, and it’s enriched my life.

Interested in Hosting an FCBA event?

The FCBA greatly appreciates the support of our members’ firms and companies who provide space for our brown bag lunches, committee meetings, and CLE Seminars throughout the year. We are, however, always looking for new locations that can host FCBA events.

In general, we need conference rooms that can seat at least 30 people at tables for brown bag lunches and committee meetings and conference rooms that can seat at least 60 people theatre style for CLE seminars. Firms and companies hosting brown bag lunches provide beverages and desserts; firms and companies hosting CLE seminars provide beverages and snacks. Brown bag lunches are generally held from 12:00 – 1:30 p.m. and CLE seminars are generally held from 12:00 – 2:15 p.m., 3:00 – 5:15 p.m., or 6:00 – 8:30 p.m. Additionally, for CLE seminars we need facilities that can provide technology support for microphones for as many as six speakers on a panel, the ability to tie the house sound system into a teleconference bridge, and video projection capabilities for PowerPoint presentations. If your firm or company has the needed conference room facilities and capabilities and would be willing to host future FCBA activities, please email Kerry Loughney, kerry@fcba.org or Starsha Valentine, starsha@fcba.org.
TO RESPOND TO JOB BANK LISTINGS

If the employer is listed, send the information requested directly to the employer. If you are responding to a BLIND BOX listing, email the necessary information to kerry@fcba.org. Clearly indicate the Blind Box number to which you are responding. If you are applying to a Blind Box, you may specify to the FCBA any organization to which you do not wish your application to be forwarded. Responses to Blind Box listings can be accepted only from FCBA members.

TO LIST A JOB

Complete a Job Bank Form (found by clicking here or going to the FCBA website under the Products, Publications, and Services link) and email or fax the form and the appropriate payment to Kerry Loughney (202-203-4317, kerry@fcba.org). In addition, please email the text of the ad to kerry@fcba.org. Listings and payment received by the 20th day of each month will appear in the next month’s newsletter. If possible, ads should not exceed 75 words. Please call the FCBA questions. (No headhunters please).

Location: Columbia, SC. Do you enjoy complex, varied, and intellectually challenging legal work? Looking for work/life balance and a collegial environment? This position offers all that and more, including the stability and benefits package associated with state government employment.

The South Carolina State Fiscal Accountability Authority is seeking a dynamic, highly-motivated and experienced lawyer to support the program charged with the development, award, and administration of State government contracts, especially in the areas of information technology services and software licensing. The responsibilities of this position will include: (1) drafting, negotiating and advising program clients relative to complex government contracts; (2) drafting, negotiating and advising program clients relative to information technology, cloud computing, software licensing, consulting services, product support, non-disclosure, and other agreements between State government agencies and private sector vendors; (3) providing strategic advice on legal considerations associated with newly emerging information technology business models; and (4) providing strategic advice and guidance on rapidly changing privacy, security, and other policy issues impacting government procurement of information technology products, services, and software.

Candidates should have the following qualifications: (1) J.D. from an ABA accredited law school with excellent academic credentials and admission to the state bar of at least one U.S. state; (2) background as a transactional attorney in-house and/or at a law firm with experience drafting, negotiating, and administering complex business contracts; (3) strong analytical and drafting skills; (4) demonstrated ability to work efficiently, meet demanding deadlines and balance multiple tasks in a fast-paced environment with minimal supervision; (5) excellent oral and written communication skills; (6) working knowledge of Microsoft Office, including Outlook, Word and PowerPoint; and (7) ability to work independently and partner effectively in a team environment.

Preferred qualifications include (1) experience with cloud computing, software licensing, systems integration, or other complex services engagements, especially those involving software and other intellectual property; (2) government contracting experience - Federal, State & Local, and/or Education; and (3) strong experience in negotiating information technology agreements with large enterprise commercial and/or government entities.

This lawyer will serve in the Office of General Counsel of the State Fiscal Accountability Authority. Formerly part of the SC Budget and Control Board, the Authority is the State agency responsible for operating the State’s central purchasing office for major public contracts, including those involving information technology, supplies, services, and construction; with administering the State’s self-insurance fund; and with reviewing and approving major government transactions (capital improvements, bonds/debt, real property transactions, etc.).

Minimum Requirements: A juris doctor degree or its equivalent from an accredited law school. Licensed as an attorney at least 4 years. At the time job duties commence, membership in the South Carolina Bar. Start date is flexible.

More Information: For salary range and other additional information, consult the Official Job Posting below. Applications must be submitted through the State’s job portal at Jobs.sc.gov.

Official Job Posting: The official job posting is available at the following URL: http://agency.governmentjobs.com/sc/default.cfm?action=viewjob&jobID=1533132

Howard Jay Braun (June 1937 – December 2016)

Howard Jay Braun died on December 3, 2016, after a year-long battle with acute lymphoblastic leukemia. He was 79. Howard was a communications attorney for his entire career and an active member of the FCBA for many years.

He grew up in Lynbrook, New York. His undergraduate degree was from Brown University, in 1959, and his law degree was from New York University, in 1962.

Howard served as Chair of the FCBA’s Luncheon Committee for several years during the time when the Association had monthly luncheons with guest speakers, and no staff. He and his committee put in long hours organizing the details of these luncheons. Some senior members of the Association still remember arriving at the luncheons and seeing Howie (as we all knew him) at a table in the entryway, collecting checks and doling out tickets.

He also served as Chair of the Annual Seminar Committee.

Howie’s long-time colleagues Shelley Sadowsky and Lee Shubert remember Howie as An extraordinary person to practice law with, infusing the workday with humor and seemingly boundless energy. Howie would often remark that the practice of law was fun. Yet he took his responsibilities very seriously and, despite his often goofy demeanor, he was absolutely conscientious and meticulous regarding prompt, efficient and excellent service to his clients.

In his retirement, Howie mentored elementary, middle and high school students and was on the board of his local library -- the Davis Library in Bethesda. As a library board member he chaired the Program Committee, focusing his efforts on youth activities.

He is survived by his wife Karen, their sons David and Gary, and five grandchildren.

1.17.4 Telecommunications Law Associate – Washington, DC Office – Best Best & Krieger LLP has an immediate opening for an associate with three to five years of experience in telecommunications law who wishes to develop a practice focused on representing local governments, schools, other public agencies and nonprofits. While we represent some private sector clients, the bulk of our practice involves representing the public sector and nonprofits in their roles as regulators, infrastructure owners and market participants. The position involves working closely with clients to: research and write briefs before lower courts and courts of appeal; prepare and file comments with the Federal Communications Commission; develop policy papers and positions on communications issues affecting local governments, including plans for broadband deployment; draft ordinances governing use of rights of way and governing land use by communications providers (including wireless facilities providers); and draft agreements and franchises with communications and cable companies. Experience in public safety radio is a plus.
