PRESIDENT'S Message

DEAR FELLOW MEMBERS:

Spring has sprung, the cherry blossoms are in full bloom, and Sparty is still dancing.

First, a quick recap on two stellar events in March. First, the General Counsel's Breakfast had an excellent turnout, and those in attendance were able to learn first hand from FCBA veterans Michelle Bryan (Intelsat), Lynn Charytan (Comcast Cable), Leonard Kennedy (former Sprint/CFPB/Neustar), Melissa Newman (Transit Wireless); and Tom Power (CTIA). Michele Farquhar (Hogan Lovells) served as moderator and host of the event.

Many of us returned to Hogan Lovells a few days later to attend the FCBA Mentoring Supper, where experienced FCBA members regaled the next generation of the bar with career development and networking tips, and thrilling stories of how job searches were conducted prior to the Internet. Many thanks to Hogan Lovells, the Diversity and Young Lawyers Committees, and the O.G. duo of Lynne Milne and Laura Phillips in pulling the event together.

The Annual Seminar at the Omni Homestead is just around the bend. Under the sage leadership of Scott Deutchman, the Committee has assembled diverse panels to discuss topical and unique programming. In response to high demand, we developed one panel that will be eligible for CLE credit. We will also have the Golf Tournament (Verizon), Tennis Tournament (Harris, Wiltshire & Grannis), Friday night Karaoke (Hogan Lovells), Bingo (AT&T). Also on tap is a Saturday trip to the Barcova Beer Company and Mini-Golf organized by the Young Lawyers Committee, a Naturalist Hike in Cascades Gorge, and an early Sunday "Fun Run" led by Brooks Harlow (Lukas LaFuria).

Along with seven more CLEs, countless Brown Bags and our Annual Lunch (more details to follow soon), the 23rd Annual FCBA Foundation Robert Emmet Lee Memorial Golf Tournament will be held on June 4, 2019, at the 1757 Golf Club in Sterling, Virginia. The Golf Committee, led by terrific trio of Arturo Chang, Henry Gola, and Alex Moyer, are hard at work in organizing the event, and you can register now (see page 32).

As always, please do not hesitate to reach out to me with your questions, comments, and recommendations, at lee.petro@pillsburylaw.com, or 202.663.8113.

The FCBA Intellectual Property and Mass Media Committees will sponsor a CLE on Tuesday, May 7 from 6:00 – 8:15 p.m. entitled "Lawyering Social: Legal Issues on Social and Digital Media." This program will be held at Wiley Rein LLP, 1776 K Street, NW.

As the lines between old and new media blur, and broadcasters become more active in the digital world, whether it be through social media platforms like Facebook and Twitter, or by posting their content online through their own websites, through platforms like YouTube, streaming their content directly to the consumer, or podcasting, lawyers representing these broadcasters need to understand the legal landmines that may await them in the cyber-jungle. In this CLE, we will examine the basic legal issues arising at the intersection of traditional media and the new social and digital media, and explore the roles of the FCC and FTC in addressing these issues.

WELCOME AND INTRODUCTIONS

COPYRIGHT AND TRADEMARK ISSUES

When can companies take material from social media or other Internet sites, and use it on their traditional media platforms? Can you take videos from YouTube and feature them in your 11:00 news? Can you take a photo from a website and use it to illustrate a story on your broadcast station's website? What liability do you have for posting material on Facebook, Twitter or other social media sites? Who owns what you post on social media sites? Are you liable for what your employees post online? Can you encourage your audience to post photos or videos on your website or social media pages? What liability do you have for their posts? What music licenses do you need to produce online videos or podcasts? These and other issues will be explored in this first panel.

What are the FTC's rules for protecting the privacy and security of personal information collected via social and digital media platforms? Are there any special disclosure requirements for online political ads under Federal or state law? Are station contests run through social media subject to any special rules? Texas Chapter holds successful CLE Program on 9-1-1

On February 27, 2019, the Texas Chapter of the FCBA hosted a one-hour program, in which three panelists discussed How 9-1-1 Regulations and Service Delivery Standards and Practices look to Keep Pace with increased Consumer Expectations, the Broadband and Voice Marketplace, Federal and State Industry Deregulation and Interconnectivity Changes, and Caller Location Accuracy. Twenty people attended, including FCBA members and members of the Texas PUC Staff.

Patrick Tyler, General Counsel of the Commission on State Emergency Communications; Richard Muscat, Director of Regulatory Affairs, Bexar Metro 9-1-1 Network; and Mary Boyd, Vice President of Government and External Affairs for West Safety Services were the speakers at the event. Each speaker has over twenty years' experience in 911, Mary Boyd has over thirty.

The speakers agreed Next Generation 911 (NG911) is where 911 is moving. NG911 is changing how 911 calls are routed to over 6,000 public safety answering points (PSAPs) in the United States. Instead of the legacy selective router and ALI/ANI database system, networks are being optimized for and calls are being transported to PSAPs using Internet Protocol.

The NG911 system will provide more than the traditional location and call-back number for an emergency caller. Callers will be able to make voice, text, or video calls and PSAPs will receive data from a range of devices. The infrastructure also will support transfer of emergency calls and data to other PSAPs.

The panelists discussed who pays for the new solutions, the FCC's calls for cooperative solutions, and the FCC's review of dispatchable locations that include a z axis and the traditional x and y coordinates. Current location data depends on the caller's carrier. Future technology will allow callers' location to be presented with a location in a building.

Traditional emergency calls depend on the Master Street Address Guide (MSAG) but today's broadband solutions do not interact with the MSAG database. Developing standards will allow expanded use of broadband technology. Along with these issues comes concerns about non-native 911 networks not having the security of a dedicated 911 network.

While 92% of Americans are likely to use a cell phone to call 911, the panelists discussed other emerging technologies. 93% of Americans want PSAPs to receive and respond to text messages. Over 50% of Americans think smart speakers, wearable devices, home security systems, and medical alert devices should be required to allow users to call 911 directly in an emergency. The panelists discussed reliability and policy decisions associated with the new technologies.

FOUNDATION News

23rd Annual FCBA Foundation Golf Tournament to be held Tuesday, June 4 Same Course! Same fees!

On Tuesday, June 4, we will host our annual FCBA Golf Tournament at 1757 Golf Club in Dulles, Virginia. 1757 Golf Club is known for its pristine golf course and beautiful facilities, and is located close to downtown DC. Thanks to the shrewd negotiating skills of the Golf Committee, we are excited to come back to this venue for the second year without any fee increase. There is truly no excuse to join your colleagues for a wonderful afternoon of fun!

Our transition to 1757 was a great success! The number of players substantially grew and the course presented its challenging form to everyone that attended. The current champions of the FCBA Golf Cup is team Wireless Infrastructure Association so put your Eagle Foursomes together and compete for this year's cup!

In addition, even if you cannot attend, you can help “rebalance” the demographic tilt of the tournament by directly contributing to this effort by donating $50 to the Golf Stipend fund. Such funds would be applied to assist young FCBA lawyers, law students, clerks, and interns with the golf fees and allow them to join the tournament.

Consistent with past years, we will continue to start the tourney in the afternoon this year so that our workaholic friends can get in a few hours at the office (or plenty of time to warm up on the range). Shotgun start will be at 1:00 p.m. followed by a delicious post-round Buffet BBQ Dinner.

As always, all of the proceeds from the Tournament go straight to the FCBA Foundation to support its wonderful programs, including the Scholarship programs and the Summer Legal Internship program. Over the years, the Tournament has raised over $400,000 for the FCBA Foundation charities, all under the auspices of getting together with your colleagues for an enjoyable day of golf! Our goal and motto: “What a great concept: Do good and have fun at the same time!” We hope you can join us this year!

See registration details on page 32 of this newsletter and sign up today! The Golf Committee always welcomes prize donations or those interested in helping out! Contact Arturo Chang at Arturo.Chang@WIA.org if you want to contribute!

Glenn Reynolds

By: Laura Phillips

I recently had the pleasure of sitting down to lunch with Glenn Reynolds. Glenn is well-known throughout the FCBA and in December 2017, Glenn started the DC office for Telecordia d/b/a/iconectiv, as the Head of Governmental and Industry Affairs. As the entity that holds the contract for national number portability, iconectiv has plenty of issues keeping Glenn busy. Beyond his current work, however, over the years Glenn has had a wide range of different work experiences, moving among law firms, federal government service, to private companies as well as trade associations. And Glenn was willing to share his perspective on what each of these different types of jobs bring to a career and to developing capabilities.

Q: What attracted you to the field of communications?

A: Out of law school I went the standard law firm route. At Patton Boggs, my area of concentration was antitrust and competition law focusing on the Federal Trade Commission and DOJ. It was a coincidence of timing that I was ready for a change around the same time as the Telecom Act of 1996 passed, and my competition background seemed like a good fit with what the FCC was being tasked to accomplish. Over the next five and half years, I held six different jobs at the FCC – which wasn't uncommon at that time. I started as a staffer in the Enforcement Division of the Common Carrier Bureau knowing next to nothing about communications law and through a series of opportunities finished as Deputy Bureau Chief of the Wireline Competition Bureau. And, of course, all that was possible because I was fortunate to be in position to learn from a number of great bosses and mentors, like Dorothy Attwood, Richard Metzger and Ruth Milkman, among many others.

Q: Have things unfolded in your career more or less the way you planned?

A: One bit of advice I give to young lawyers is that while it's great to have a long-term vision of where you want to go, it's critical to be flexible and open to unexpected opportunities. That has certainly defined my career.

While I had contemplated spending time with the government, moving to the FCC was certainly not planned. And after my second son was born, it was time for another move and there was an opportunity with the DC government affairs office of BellSouth. At that time there was a small team of managers in DC who worked directly with the business unit in Atlanta. That allowed me to get a great first-hand understanding of the business imperatives. And then, in something certainly unplanned, BellSouth was acquired by AT&T which opened a new opportunity to move into the trade association world at USTelecom – which required a different set of skills as one of the primary challenges is finding the commonality in the goals of your member companies.

And again, I was not looking to move when at an FCBA Annual Seminar I ran across Larry Strickling who was then the Administrator for NTIA, and who I had worked closely with at the FCC. He was looking for a Chief of Staff to replace Tom Power and asked if I would be interested. After initially declining, I realized that it was the type of challenge that I'd regret if I didn't give it a shot. And I'm very glad I did. It was a very different role than any of my previous jobs and it gave me the opportunity to learn a whole new breadth of technology policy issues I had never been exposed to, see the operation of the White House and Executive Branch from the inside, and develop my management skills.

So I can certainly say that my career has not followed the plan I would have envisioned out of law school.

Q: What's the most interesting or challenging thing that occupies you in your current position?

A: I think it's always challenging to take complex technical issues and translate those into advocacy that is comprehensible without sacrificing important subtleties. That is certainly a daily challenge in my current job where we are typically discussing very technical matters that at the same time often only get attention when a problem arises. I try to educate policymakers and other stakeholders of things they should be aware of before they get to the point of becoming problems. One of my responsibilities at NTIA was working closely with the engineers at the agency's lab in Boulder, and I think that experience really helped me in this regard as a key part of this work was trying to figure out how to communicate to stakeholders without technical background the importance of the work being done at the lab. Part of the trick is finding the right balance between knowing enough about the technology to understand the issue at hand while knowing when things are getting too deep into the weeds.

Q: Is there something that stands out to you about managing people in your various roles that you can share?

A: I've been the beneficiary of bosses that managed by the principal of trying to do what's best for their employees – even if it is not in the manager's short term interest – and I like to think that I've passed that on to those I've managed. In the long-run, I really believe that approach is in the best interests of the organization because you attract more good people. And I've seen over and over how such an approach pays off, particularly within a bar where it's common to work with the same people in different roles over the course of your career.

Q: What do you enjoy reading?

A: I enjoy historical biographies because they tend to knit things together within a period of time or provide insight and context. In the last year or so I've read biographies on Steve Jobs and Bruce Springsteen. While at first blush you would not necessarily think that they were at all similar, but there is some stunning commonality in that they were both so dedicated to the pursuit of perfection in their area of chosen endeavor that they sacrificed personal relationships along the way. I'm sure there's a lesson in there somewhere...

Q: Can you share perspective on pitfalls to avoid or other career advice for those who are just getting started in the communications field?

A: Be flexible and don't feel like your first job has to be the perfect job. Rather, I would say go into any early career job (or assignment) thinking what can I learn here? And how will help me grow professionally and move in the direction I want to go?

Q: What is something interesting about you people are not generally aware of that you're willing to share?

A: I love live music. I used to be a mediocre drummer and I really enjoy the DC area music scene. Of course, the communications bar has a number of music aficionados who I will often join for some live music – in fact, there's a good chance that at any live show in DC you will run into either Tom Power or Jonathan Adelstein.

Q: How long have you been a member and what is the value of FCBA membership?

A: I've been an FCBA member since I was at the FCC, going on 20 years now. I've always been a big fan of the role played by the FCBA in contributing to the community spirit that I think is a unique characteristic of the communications bar. My kids grew up going to the Annual Seminar every year and I've seen the children of other long-time members go from little kids to college grads. I have served on both the FCBA Executive Committee and the Foundation Board, and they both do great work for the membership. The Foundation, in particular, really provides a great service to members by providing a vehicle for members to give back to the community. Actually, my longest serving role was a nearly 10 year stint as Chair of FCBA Golf Committee that runs the annual charity golf tournament. The tournament is a lot of fun but it has a serious purpose and every year raises thousands of dollars for the Foundation.

Are you a member who can add to our programming as a speaker? Do you know someone who is? Can you think of a topic that should be the subject of an event?

The FCBA invites you to send your ideas! Our committees are always looking for potential speakers from diverse backgrounds. The Diversity Committee is compiling a database of FCBA members who want to add to the conversation on substantive topics as speakers and moderators. If you are interested, please send an email to Janeen Wynn, janeen@fcba.org, with your name, affiliation, and topics about which you have knowledge with the subject line "FCBA Speakers Bureau." The Diversity Committee will compile this database on a rolling basis and make it available to all committee co-chairs. FCBA committee co-chairs should feel free to use the Diversity Committee as a resource when identifying speakers or moderators for other events.

Interested in Hosting an FCBA event?

The FCBA greatly appreciates the support of our members' firms and companies who provide space for our brown bag lunches, committee meetings, and CLE Seminars throughout the year. We are, however, always looking for new locations that can host FCBA events.

In general, we need conference rooms that can seat at least 30 people at tables for brown bag lunches and committee meetings and conference rooms that can seat at least 60 people theatre style for CLE seminars. Firms and companies hosting brown bag lunches provide beverages and desserts; firms and companies hosting CLE seminars provide beverages and snacks. Brown bag lunches are generally held from 12:00 – 1:30 p.m. and CLE seminars are generally held from 12:00 – 2:15 p.m., 3:00 – 5:15 p.m., or 6:00 – 8:15 p.m. Additionally, for CLE seminars we need facilities that can provide technology support for microphones for as many as six speakers on a panel, the ability to tie the house sound system into a teleconference bridge, and video projection capabilities for PowerPoint presentations. If your firm or company has the needed conference room facilities and capabilities and would be willing to host future FCBA activities, please email Kerry Loughney, kerry@fcba.org.

FCBA Ninth Annual MENTORING SUPPER

Presented by the FCBA's Diversity Committee and Young Lawyers Committee

On March 14, 2019, about 110 mentors and mentees gathered in the conference facilities of Hogan Lovells US LLP for the FCBA's Ninth Annual Mentoring Supper. This year's Mentoring Supper again featured many prominent communications law practitioners serving as mentors to a diverse group of young lawyers, lawyers in transition and law students. There were 72 registrations by mentees this year, which is a record number.

At the beginning of this evening program, announcements and introductions were made by Lynne Milne and Young Lawyers Committee Co-Chair Elizabeth Cuttner. At the end of the evening, additional announcements were made by Diversity Committee Co-Chair Jamile Kadre and Young Lawyers Committee Co-Chair Thom Parisi. Contributions to the extensive planning and outreach efforts for this event, as well as creative problem-solving at the event, were made by Elizabeth Cuttner, Kyle Dixon, Jamile Kadre, Kerry Loughney, Lynne Milne, Rachel Nemeth, Thomas Parisi, Lee Petro, Laura Phillips, Sean Spivey, Brita Strandberg, Joshua Turner, Sanford Williams and Rachel Wolkowitz.

The evening's program was structured as three series of mentoring sessions. The mentors and mentees engaged in intimate and lively discussions of careers, professional development and advice for success, while enjoying a delicious buffet dinner. Mentees were encouraged to ask any questions of the mentors, including those about personal mentor-mentee relationships, career development and opportunities for professional growth. Mentors moved between three tables through the evening, allowing the mentees to meet and learn from as many as six mentors, and hear different perspectives about the varied career paths available to communications lawyers. Excellent mentoring continued throughout the evening, based on the specific circumstances of the mentees and the varied experiences in solving problems of the mentors.

We thank the mentors who volunteered their time and expertise to provide appreciated career advice to the mentees participating in this program, including Robert Branson, Elizabeth Cuttner, Nicholas Degani, Scott Delacourt, Matthew DelNero, Kyle Dixon, Yaron Dori, Kristine Fargotstein, Michele Farquhar, Stacy Fuller, Angela Giancarlo, Anna Gomez, Nese Guendelsberger, Trey Hanbury, Scott Blake Harris, Diane Holland, Narda Jones, Jamile Kadre, Jean Kiddoo, Kathleen Kirby, Anisa Latif, Tony Lee, Bakari Middleton, Lynne

Milne, Barry Ohlson, Thomas Parisi, Lee Petro, Laura Phillips, Roger Sherman, Gigi Sohn, Sean Spivey, Megan Anne Stull, Anne Swanson, Johanna Thomas, Bryan Tramont, Jenell Trigg, Joshua Turner, Caroline Van Wie, Ryan Wallach, Jennifer Warren, Rachel Wolkowitz, and Christopher Wright.

The FCBA very much appreciates the continued financial and logistical support of Hogan Lovells US LLP, Signature Sponsor of the Ninth Annual Mentoring Supper, as well as the photography provided again by Mark Van Bergh.
