December 5-6 PLI/FCBA 31st Annual Institute on Telecommunications Policy & Regulation

For the 31st consecutive year, the FCBA and the Practising Law Institute will co-sponsor an annual conference on "Telecommunications Policy and Regulation." This year's Institute will be held on December 5-6, at the Washington Hilton, 1919 Connecticut Avenue, NW, Washington, DC.

The Institute will provide attendees with a comprehensive understanding of the hot button issues facing the telecommunications industry today—at the FCC, Congress, and within the Executive and Judicial branches. Featuring a faculty of expert practitioners, in-house counsel from telecommunications organizations, and key officials from the FCC and the Administration, this program will address the latest developments in wireline, wireless, and privacy issues, and will feature a Congressional staff panel.

Julius P. Knapp, Chief of the Office of Engineering and Technology, Julie Veach, Chief of the Wireline Competition Bureau, and Roger Sherman, Acting Chief of the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau, will provide attendees with tutorials on their respective areas.

Once again, the Institute will include a spirited debate—this year on "The Future of Telecommunications Policy," with Earl W. Comstock of Comstock Consulting LLC facing off against Lawrence J. Spiwak of the Phoenix Center for Advanced Legal & Economic Public Policy Studies, and FCBA President-Elect, David Gross, as moderator.

Kathleen Q. Abernathy, Mark D. Schneider, and Peter D. Shields of the FCBA's Conference Planning Committee will serve as Institute co-chairs. In addition, a number of FCBA members will moderate or participate on the various program segments.

A registration form for the 1½ day seminar is on page 23. As noted, a registration fee discount is available to FCBA members.

Jennifer Hightower, Senior Vice President Legal and Regulatory Affairs, Cox Communications, Inc.

By: Laura Phillips

I had the chance to catch up with Jennifer Hightower to discuss what she's been up to lately keeping her company's legal and regulatory priorities in order and operations humming along at Cox Communications. Jen has worked at Cox in a number of legal and regulatory capacities since 1997 and in her current capacity she oversees legal and regulatory matters. Cox Communications is one of the nation's pre-eminent integrated digital cable entertainment, broadband Internet and telephone service providers. Jen is resident at Cox's Atlanta, Georgia headquarters. I asked Jennifer about her perspective on her career in communications, on how she manages and helps to set priorities for a company like Cox, as well as what it is like to be an FCBA member outside of the DC metro area.

Q: What attracted you to the field of communications?

A: I would say what attracted me to communications was not so much the desire to learn all about communications but rather, I was attracted to two particular companies that had strong reputations and opportunities. In each case I ended up working on communications matters. Another way of saying it is that I had been a litigator in a law firm and after four years of that I wanted a change. I had the good fortune to land at BellSouth right around the time of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 implementation. Anyone active at that time recalls what a wide range of interesting work there was. I was part of a legal and regulatory team of six who were thinking broadly and working through BellSouth's implementation process and strategies. It was really exciting stuff. When I moved over to Cox Communications, I was brought on board to be a commercial attorney primarily, with some regulatory responsibilities. That morphed over time to be a real mix of commercial and regulatory responsibilities. I was fortunate to be able to learn on the job. So, communications was not where I started, but it is where I happily am now.

Q: Has your career progressed the way you envisioned?

A: No, but only because I had no master plan or grand vision for career development. Once I determined I did not want to be a litigator in a law firm, I then looked for places to go where I thought the work would be interesting. So much changes so quickly that it strikes me that trying to have a long term grand plan may be impractical. I just always want to be engaged doing interesting things. Interesting to me means continuing to learn and be challenged in whatever role I have. I would say that the collision of communications regulation and commercial legal issues that happens nearly every day at Cox has fortunately allowed me to be able to learn new things at every step of my career at the company. I started as Corporate Counsel on the commercial side, mostly assisting with aspects of getting Cox's local telephone business operations up and running. There was a bit of regulatory work associated initially with that role that just grew over time through Cox's expansions into wireless, the growing broadband services and wireline/voip business lines. I moved from Vice President, Regulatory to Assistant General Counsel to Senior Vice President over all legal compliance matters for Cox Communications. I now work with an outstanding team of 70 people covering the waterfront for the company.

Q: What is the most challenging part of your current position and why?

A: There are a number of challenges, I cannot really settle on just one that trumps the rest. First, it's simply a challenge to be agile and constantly able to think through all the things that come at us, sometimes at tremendous speed. One prime example of this is the effort it takes to keep up with technology and what it enables operationally and the legal ramifications of all that. Second, it can be a challenge to understand and incorporate in your thinking that there is always a financial impact to the business of legal or regulatory decisions that are being made. You need to make sure these things are weighed in any important decision. Then I would say another challenge is sure that people are being managed effectively, that my team and I stay current on the relevant things that matter to the business. Partnering effectively with the business teams within Cox Communications is fun and exciting but it can also be challenging. Certainly a lot can happen quickly and as the company's legal or regulatory team, we don't want to be constantly reacting as opposed to helping think through issues and be ahead of some of them. There certainly are many new things on the horizon both from the standpoint of technology and from the standpoint of competition across products and geography. Every business I know of seems to be working with fewer resources than a just a couple of years ago, even as there is more complexity to be managed and Cox Communications is no different. Did I mention how challenging it is to be what is now considered to be a medium-sized cable operator trying to think through the myriad of possible program access issues? It's a bit like three dimensional chess, without a playbook.

Q: What are you reading now?

A: Well my book club is reading John Steinbeck's East of Eden. I'm reading Wonder, by R. J Palacio, along with my sons. And just to mix it up a bit, I'm also reading Doris Kearns Goodwin's latest book, The Bully Pulpit: Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft and the Golden Age of Journalism. So, clearly, I enjoy jumping around and reading a couple of things at once, so I can read whatever suits me when I have the time.

Q: What surprised or impressed you most about people you've worked with and why?

A: I've been really impressed by how smart in general folks in the communications industry are. In particular, the communications bar – which includes a number of folks in my company by the way – has consistently struck me as strategic and thoughtful and the bar as a whole displays a sense of curiosity and engagement. As a group they tend to take continuous learning seriously. I've also been impressed about how friendly and courteous that FCBA members in general are to one another, even when they represent polar opposite interests. It's telling to me, as it is I have seen other bar or professional associations where people do not have a broad sense of community that the FCBA does. People in the FCBA just cooperate like I have not seen elsewhere.

DC Bar Lawyer Assistance Program

The DC Bar offers a free, confidential program for lawyers and law students who are experiencing problems, such as addiction, mental health symptoms or stress, which interfere with their personal or professional lives. Telephone or face-to-face consultations with licensed counselors are available. The program also provides mentors. Here is a link to a more detailed description of the counseling opportunities that are offered: http://www.dcbar.org/for_lawyers/bar_services/counseling/about.cfm.

Q: Can you share a perspective on pitfalls to avoid or other career advice for those who are just getting started in the communications field?

A: I would say that as you go through your professional life, you always want to avoid being too wedded to what you think you know. Sometimes you might be surprised there is another answer that can come from an unexpected avenue. As for career advice, I'd say you should never be adverse to taking a risk and making a change, which is a hard thing for lawyers to get their arms around. Finally, taking the long view of what can make a positive difference in career success, I think everyone needs to find a teacher, a mentor and a sponsor to help you progress at different points and times over the course of a career. Ideally you need one of each.

Q: What's something interesting about you that people are not generally aware of you are willing to share?

A: Well, I have three boys under the age of 10 and I met my husband at work, of all places. Honestly, what people may not know is that I was a singer in my youth. An alto, no surprise. I was part of a show choir. We did show choir trips and I even sang at Disney!

Q: How long have you been an FCBA member and what is the value of FCBA membership?

A: I've been a member of the FCBA for 12 years and I was chair of the Atlanta Chapter for five of those years. I think the main value of the FCBA, particularly for someone who is not located in Washington, is the constant learning opportunities the FCBA and its chapters and committees provide. The CLE offerings are very informative, they are a way of keeping up with what communications professionals in DC think are important topics and evolving trends.

Is there an FCBA member you'd like to see profiled in future columns? If so, please contact Laura Phillips at laura.phillips@dbr.com.

Interested in Hosting an FCBA event?

The FCBA greatly appreciates the support of our members' firms and companies who provide space for our brown bag lunches, committee meetings, and CLE Seminars throughout the year. We are, however, always looking for new locations that can host FCBA events. We will be experimenting with some new presentation technology in future CLE seminars, which require more technical support than we have needed in the past.

In general terms, we need conference rooms that can seat at least 30 (more if possible) people at tables for brown bag lunches and committee meetings and conference rooms that can seat a minimum of 60 for CLE seminars. Firms and companies hosting brown bag lunches provide beverages and desserts; firms and companies hosting CLE seminars provide beverages and snacks. CLE seminars are generally held from 6:00 – 8:30 p.m. Additionally, for CLE seminars we need facilities that can provide technology support for microphones for as many as six speakers on a panel, the ability to tie the house sound system into a teleconference bridge, video projection capabilities for PowerPoint presentations, and access to the internet for Webinar services. If your firm or company has the needed conference room facilities and capabilities and would be willing to host future FCBA activities, please email Stan Zenor, stan@fcba.org, or Kerry Loughney, kerry@fcba.org.

Volunteer at Martha's Table on December 29

On Sunday, December 29, 2013, from 10:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m., the FCBA will be preparing and distributing food at the FCBA Foundation's partner charity, Martha's Table. The FCBA has been meeting monthly to volunteer at Martha's Table for many years. Martha's Table feeds hundreds of homeless adults and children on the streets of Washington daily, through its mobile soup kitchen. Martha's Table is located in a yellow building at 2114 Fourteenth Street, NW, in the District, near the intersection of 14th and U Streets. On-street parking is available. Volunteers are asked to bring food if possible, (e.g., cold cuts, bread, peanut butter, jelly, vegetables and potatoes) because the center often runs out of donated food.

Please mark your calendars, bring your friends and children, and participate in this great volunteer effort. If you are able to volunteer, please contact Howard Weiss at 703-812-0471, weiss@fhhlaw.com.

The FCBA volunteers on the last Sunday of every month, so mark your calendars now!

BUSINESS ATTIRE

Pursuant to the Office of Government Ethics regulation on widely-attended gatherings (5 C.F.R. 2635.204(g)(2)), the Chairman's Dinner appears to qualify as a widely attended gathering. The value of an individual ticket to the dinner is $275.00. Most employees of the Federal Communications Commission may be directly invited to attend the dinner as guests of individuals and organizations purchasing tables or tickets. In most cases, individuals and organizations may issue invitations to the Chairman's Dinner without the involvement of the FCBA. Some agencies, departments and branches of the Federal Government, however, apply additional stipulations above the regulations issued by the Office of Government Ethics. Individuals who have signed the Administration's Ethics pledge cannot accept invitations from most registered lobbying organizations or registered lobbyists. While this event has qualified as a widely-attended-gathering in previous years, each FCC employee is required to obtain individual ethics clearance based on matters they are working on within the Commission. Employees of the Commerce Department are required to obtain individual ethics clearance through the Department's Office of General Counsel. Invitations to Members of Congress, Congressional Staff, and employees of the Department of State must be issued by the FCBA. Contact the FCBA for additional information. Requests for invitations to be sent from the FCBA must be emailed to Stan Zenor (stan@fcba.org) and received by Friday, November 22, 2013.
