Agenda

12:00 – 12:05 p.m. WELCOME AND INTRODUCTIONS

12:05 – 1:00 p.m. WHAT IS THE FCC ENFORCEMENT BUREAU?

The first session will provide an in-depth examination of the FCC Enforcement Bureau and the tools it uses to investigate alleged violations of telecommunications statutes and regulations. The discussion will focus on the Bureau's structure, responsibilities, investigative procedures, and enforcement processes. The discussion also will explore best practices and potential pitfalls concerning Bureau investigations, enforcement actions, and settlements.

Speakers:

Lee Petro, Special Counsel, Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP, former FCBA President

Owen Smith, Co-Chair, FCBA Enforcement Committee, Associate, HWG LLP

1:00 – 2:00 p.m.

FCC ENFORCEMENT TODAY

The second session will consist of “a year in review” where we look back at major FCC enforcement actions in 2022 and what those actions tell us about the agency's priorities. The session will include a panel discussion with FCC Enforcement Bureau staff.

Moderators:

Suzanne M. Tetreault, Co-Chair, FCBA Enforcement Committee, Partner, Wilkinson Barker Knauer, LLP

Elizabeth E. Craig, Co-Chair, FCBA Enforcement Committee, Associate, Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP

Speakers:

Wednesday, February 15, 3:00 – 5:00 p.m. ET What's Here and What's Next for the Regulation of Artificial Intelligence

The FCBA Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, and Robotics Committee will sponsor a CLE on Wednesday, February 15 from 3:00 – 5:00 p.m. ET entitled What's Here and What's Next for the Regulation of Artificial Intelligence. This program will be held virtually via the Zoom platform.

This program will address some of the important legal questions surrounding the regulation of Artificial Intelligence (AI). The first part of the program will address the pending FTC ANPRM and the issues involving commercial surveillance and data security that were discussed in comments submitted in October. The second part of the program will explore the critical issues facing the future of the industry including whether the FTC has the authority to regulate AI.

The FCBA will apply for 2.0 hours of MCLE credit from the VA Bar. This program has not yet been approved.

If you have any issues, please contact Elizabeth Hagerty at elizabeth@fcba.org.

Agenda

3:00 – 3:05 p.m. WELCOME AND INTRODUCTIONS

3:05 – 4:00 p.m. WHAT'S HERE: FTC PROPOSED RULEMAKING ON COMMERCIAL SURVEILLANCE AND DATA SECURITY

The Federal Trade Commission has issued an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking nominally addressing “Commercial Surveillance and Data Security” but which also raises significant questions about the use of artificial intelligence (AI) and machine learning (ML) systems known as automated decision-making tools, and the risks of potential algorithmic discrimination. This panel will discuss the implications of the pending ANPRM on the regulation of AI tools, systems and applications. Panelists will specifically examine the questions the FTC raises concerning automated decision-making systems, alleged algorithmic discrimination and the use of biometric information.

Tuesday, March 21, 2023, 2:00 – 4:30 p.m. ET Connecting the Globe: The Submarine Cable Industry Current and Future Trends

The FCBA International Telecommunications Committee will sponsor a CLE on Tuesday, March 21 from 2:00 – 4:30 p.m. ET entitled Connecting the Globe: The Submarine Cable Industry Current and Future Trends. This program will be held virtually via the Zoom platform.

We live in an increasingly wireless world, yet our ability to connect globally depends chiefly on underwater cables (also referred to as submarine cables, subsea cables, or undersea cables). This CLE will begin with an overview of the submarine cable industry, including how cable networks are built and maintained and how the industry's market has evolved and continues to develop. Following that overview, the first panel will address the federal and international regulatory landscape, including emerging challenges and national security concerns. The second panel will provide insights into current industry projects and options for financing submarine cable projects to meet the current and future needs of operators and customers.

The FCBA will apply for 2.0 hours of MCLE credit from the VA Bar. This program has not yet been approved.

Pettit, Principal Deputy Solicitor General, Office of the Texas Attorney

General; Jonathan Cohen, Partner, Wilkinson Barker Knauer, LLP (moderator)

Description: The U.S. Supreme Court is hearing cases this term that could disrupt how online platforms moderate content and thus could affect how people interact with the internet. In Gonzalez v. Google and Twitter v. Taamneh, the Court will decide whether platforms should be held liable for hosting and recommending terrorist content, and it also seems likely to decide to hear cases on the constitutionality of state laws dictating certain content moderation practices. These are matters of first impression for the Court and it seems clear that any changes in law will have implications for companies throughout the internet ecosystem that handle user content.

The FCLJ is Looking for Articles

The Federal Communications Law Journal (FCLJ), the official academic journal of the FCBA, is hosted by The George Washington University Law School. It has long been an important source of legal scholarship on communications issues, and the FCBA is proud to offer the journal as a benefit to our members.

The Federal Communications Law Journal (FCLJ) editorial board at The George Washington University Law School is seeking article submissions for potential publication in the upcoming issues of the FCLJ. Interested members may submit articles to the Senior Articles Editor, Micah Leval (fcjljarticles@law.gwu.edu). Articles may also be submitted through ExpressO or Scholastica. For general inquiries about the FCLJ, please contact the Editor-in-Chief, Julia Dacy (fcjlj@law.gwu.edu).

The Federal Communications Law Journal

The Federal Communications Law Journal has long been an important source of legal scholarship on communications issues, and the FCBA is proud to offer the journal as a benefit to our members.

FCBA members may now decide how they would like to receive the journal. The FCLJ itself will continue to be published in hard copy, however, rather than receiving hard copies as a default, we'll be distributing electronic links to the content.

For those of you who would like to receive the FCLJ electronically, you don't have to do anything. We will email you a link when a new issue is published. You may also visit <http://www.fcjlj.org/volumes/> to view archived volumes.

For those of you who would like to receive the FCLJ in hard copy format, you should sign up for this option by following the instructions below. You must log in to your membership account and select the FCLJ subscription. Note that the hard copy journal is free, but it must be ordered through our website.

- To log in to your account, click here or go to www.fcba.org and click the Log In button.
- Click on the link to the "Online Store" on the left side of the page.
- Click on the link to the "Federal Communications Law Journal Annual Subscription". You may also type the word Journal into the Search Bar, if needed.
- Click on "Add to Cart".
- Click on "Check Out".
- Click on "Purchase Now", and you're done!

Note that we will also send out an email reminder to members about the opt-in process before each issue is published.

If you have any questions, please send an email to Elizabeth Hagerty (elizabeth@fcba.org).

Florida Chapter Holds Event on Planes, Trains and Automobiles II: Spectrum

The FCBA Florida Chapter program on Planes, Trains and Automobiles: Spectrum Needs and Solutions for Drones and Connected and Autonomous Vehicles was held on January 31 and had a great attendance of 37 people. Ronald Brisé of the Gunster Firm moderated the two panels. Will Cox of FPL shepherded the program and Cindy Miller of Cindy Miller LLC moved it forward.

Eric Schwartz of FPL said FPL has been using drones for seven years. In 2021, they had 120,000 drone flights. This is in partnership with the FAA. Drones have been especially helpful for storm response. They enable views of areas not possible otherwise. For example, on barrier islands after the last hurricane, the drones helped prior to the teams being able to go into the area, which was inaccessible.

Melissa Tyre of Verizon also described the helpful use of drones at areas not otherwise accessible during disaster recovery. She said spectrum can be used to support drones: Uses include: (1) photos streamed over spectrum; (2) communication between drones and a person.

Ari Fitzgerald of Hogan Lovells said the unmanned aircraft systems (UAS) lack dedicated spectrum. He said relying on unlicensed spectrum does not provide protections from harmful interferences. There is a need for licenses for UAS for an interference-free spectrum. He said the FCC is preparing to assign certain spectrum via auction.

Schwartz says the FAA does not believe LTE (long-term evolution for wireless) is “life-saving.” This is a concern because safety is the FCC’s focus. Also, there is a concern about cybersecurity. There is a lot of uncertainty. The FCC and FAA both have roles. Fitzgerald said the FCC’s role is narrow – the licensing of spectrum. However, the FAA is responsible for everything else.

The two agencies need to work well together. The FAA approach is a focus on safety. The speakers urged the U.S. should be a leader in this industry. They mentioned the U.S. role in the Wright brothers and flying.

The Autonomous vehicle panel included Katy Milner of Hogan Lovells, Brandon Johnson of Perkins Cole, and John Kwant, recently of Ford Smart Mobility. They discussed the FCC 5.9 Report and Order. Johnson noted the DC Circuit upheld the 5.9 Order.

Katy Milner emphasized that the FCC and DOT have different perspectives. This is a “perennial problem” of different agencies involved. They are taking a Memorandum of Understanding approach.

Comm Daily ran an article about the program. The reporter was one of the program attendees. The article noted that Ari Fitzgerald of Hogan Lovells warned that the FCC’s work on licensed spectrum for drones is expected to take years.

Atlanta Chapter Lunch and Learn Held January 30

Atlanta Co-Chair David Konuch

Atlanta Co-Chair Clete Johnson

The FCBA is gearing up for its 2023 scholarship and stipend programs, which will award hundreds of thousands of dollars to outstanding high school and law school students, thanks to the generous contributions of FCBA members, industry sponsors, and others. Below are the details of the programs, including information on applications.

If you have any questions about these programs, please contact Janeen Wynn at janeen@fcba.org.

FCBA Foundation 2023 College Scholarship Program

The FCBA Foundation College Scholarship Program provides financial assistance and laptop computers to DC public high school students to assist them in attending college. For over 27 years, the Foundation has helped almost 365 local high school students attend college with scholarship awards ranging from several thousand dollars up to $28,000, payable over four years.

The Foundation committed nearly $300,000 to its 2022 scholarship class via scholarships of between $8,000 and $20,000 to graduating seniors who were selected because of their academic achievements and service to school and community.

The Foundation's web-based application lets interested high school seniors, who are matriculating to college next fall, apply for a scholarship online. The College Scholarship application is available at <https://webportalapp.com/sp/fcbacollegescholarship2023>.

The deadline for submission of applications is Thursday, March 2, 2023. The Foundation plans to conduct interviews of promising applicants in early April 2023. We will notify successful applicants regarding their scholarship awards before May 2023.

FCBA Foundation 2023 Law School Summer Stipend Program

For the 30th consecutive year, the FCBA Foundation will award stipends to law students employed as unpaid summer interns through its Law School Summer Stipend Program. The program provides stipends to students from around the country who want to dedicate their time and talent over the summer to government service in areas that relate to telecommunications, media, and technology (TMT) law, including broadcasting, cable, information technology, television, telephony, satellite, and wireless. It also can include work at agencies and Congressional committees addressing other communications-related areas, including internet law and policy, privacy, cybersecurity, copyright, emerging technologies, and related policy and legal issues.

The Law School Summer Stipend Program awards stipends of up to $5,000 and last year provided support to 21 outstanding law students. The Foundation considers funding from other sources in making award decisions and generally will adjust its stipend awards based on total funding received.

The Law School Summer Internship Stipend application is available at <https://webportalapp.com/sp/fcbastipend2023>. The deadline for submission is Wednesday, March 8, 2023.

FCBA Foundation 2023 Law School Scholarship Program

The FCBA Foundation Law School Scholarship Program provides financial assistance to rising second- or third-year students currently enrolled in accredited law schools in the United States who have a demonstrated interest in pursuing a career in TMT law. In 2022, the Foundation awarded $5,000 scholarships to five outstanding law students. The scholarships are payable to the applicable law school in one lump sum to help the student with tuition or other education-related expenses.

The Law School Summer Internship Stipend application is available at <https://webportalapp.com/sp/fcbalawscholarship2023>. The deadline for submission of applications is Friday, March 10, 2023.

FCBA Foundation Scholarship and Internship Programs – Call for Volunteers!

FCBA members, we need your help! The FCBA Foundation is seeking volunteers to review applications for all three of its programs, including the College Scholarship, Law School Scholarship, and Law School Summer Internship Stipend.

Volunteers will review students' written applications and/or conduct interviews with the most promising applicants as part of the selection process. Your help is more important than ever -- we expect the number of scholarship applications to be higher than last year's record.

Please see below for additional information on each program and how to volunteer.

COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

For over 27 years, the FCBA Foundation has provided scholarships to hundreds of DC high school and charter school graduates seeking to attend college. Last year, we supported local students to the tune of $300,000 in scholarships and laptops. Scholarships will be awarded to graduating high school seniors who demonstrate through their applications and personal interviews that their academic achievements, service to school and community, and commitment to learning show their potential to succeed

27th Annual FCBA Foundation Golf Tournament to be held on June 26

The FCBA Foundation will host its 27th Annual FCBA Golf Tournament at Norbeck Country Club, Rockville, Maryland, on Monday, June 26 at 1:00 p.m.

A new location and a return to our traditional June event schedule. Norbeck is known for its pristine golf course, challenging layout, and welcoming facilities just a short drive from downtown DC. This is a great opportunity to not only play a fun course but also to enjoy a good time reconnecting with FCBA colleagues. Put your Eagle Foursomes together and compete for this year's Eagle Cup!

As always, all of the proceeds from the Tournament go straight to the FCBA Foundation to support its wonderful programs, including Scholarships and Summer Legal Internships. Over the years, the Tournament has raised over $400,000 for the FCBA Foundation charities.

Our goal and motto: "What a great concept: Do good and have fun at the same time!" We hope you can join us this year.

2023 TOURNAMENT DETAILS

- Lunch has returned!
- Shotgun start will be at 1:00 p.m. followed by a delicious post-round buffet dinner!
- Additional Registration Details to Follow!

The Golf Committee always welcomes prize donations or those interested in assisting. Contact Lee G. Petro at lee.petro@pillsburylaw.com if you want to contribute.

Norbeck and the FCBA Foundation are committed to a safe environment, and we are taking all necessary measures to provide a safe and fun experience. Please check your company's guidelines on gatherings.

Trey Hanbury

By: Laura Phillips

I've known Trey Hanbury for quite a while; we first met when he was an associate at Dow, Lohnes and Albertson. Since then, he's been in government, in industry and now in private practice as the co-chair of the Communications, Internet and Technology practice at Jenner & Block. We managed to find a day where our hybrid work schedules made an in-person lunch possible, and it was terrific to see Trey, hear from him directly about what he's up to and be able to share some of his career perspectives.

Q: What attracted you to the field of communications?

A: Every first-year law student has mandatory classes. Most cycle through contracts, torts, property with all the enthusiasm you might bring to a six-month dental checkup. For me, though, property law stuck. We had a professor who gave these wandering romps of lectures that would move seamlessly from the case we had read to grand theories of why people would want property rights to the countless ways we have bought, sold, traded, rented, fractionalized, mortgaged, and conceived of this fundamental resource. He would also occasionally throw a loafered foot onto the desk of a student in the front row so he could pull up the too-loose socks that he seemed to wear special for lecture days. Seated a good three rows back from the front, I loved him and, to the bafflement of my classmates, I took every class he offered. The professor was Glen O. Robinson, a former FCC commissioner who taught for years at the University of Virginia School of Law until his retirement in 2008. The next class offered by Professor Robinson – “GlennO” to us students – was Communications Law, where the professor's interest and mine came together in the form of spectrum allocation and assignments. If there was anything I disliked about property law, it was the stasis that comes from established policies. You may not like the rule against perpetuities, but it was settled law and you had to deal with it as an unchanging element of the landscape. The changing nature of technology made the hoary old concepts of property new and innovative, and I made up my mind to try to make a career of it.

Q: Tell us about the various places you've worked through the years.

A: In college, I worked at the student papers, writing every chance I could get. Most of my work was intensely local, but every story I read and much of what I studied revolved around changes in the geopolitical environment. The fall of the Soviet Union. The rise of China. The liberation of much of eastern Europe. I wanted to be a part of that grand historical narrative, and the hunger of so many newly free people in Europe to learn English opened opportunities that seemed a lot more interesting than taking a job processing on oil-and-gas leases for the Department of Energy. To find something new, I got ahold of a list of every school district in Hungary and wrote all of them. I explained my qualifications, such as they were, and said I would come teach students English for a year or two if they would give me room and board. Email was still several years off, so the whole process took months. But eventually a technical school three hours south of Budapest said they would give me a room and a salary for expenses that translated to about $200 per month. I went, and teaching English turned out to be, hands down, the best job I ever had. Eventually, though, the tug of friends, family, and the woman who would later become my wife pulled me back to the U.S. Plus, while you can, in fact, survive on Croatian Chicken Paste for a long time, returning to fresh fruits and vegetables and consumer goods had its appeal, too.

After graduating from UVA law school, I was supposed to clerk for Judge Richard Kellam on the U.S. District Court of the Eastern District of Virginia. I thought I wanted to be a litigator, and the clerkship would offer a hands-on opportunity to learn from one of the greats. Unfortunately, Judge Kellam died before I could start. News of his death arrived while I was studying for the bar, and the court clerk asked whether the firm I had worked for the previous summer might consider taking me early. It was 1996, and the Telecom Act had just passed. Lucky for me, the firm, Dow, Lohnes & Albertson, was swamped with work and glad to take me on right away. After several years working as a law firm associate, I had an opportunity to work at the Federal Communications Commission. I started at the International Bureau and wound up working in various positions including what was then the Common Carrier Bureau and eventually took a position working for then-Chairman Michael Powell. I subsequently left for the private sector to join Nextel Communications, which Sprint Communications subsequently acquired. After working at Sprint for eight years, I moved back to the law firm environment, first to Hogan Lovells and, as of 2022, Jenner & Block, where I work on issues related to terrestrial wireless, satellite spectrum, and technology with a group of amazingly talented people.

Q: Have things unfolded in your career more or less the way you planned?

A: Not at all. My plans ran into one obstacle after another, but I've been lucky enough to be able to reorient when I needed to do so.

Q: What's the most interesting or challenging thing that you've done in your current position?

Get to Know an FCBA MEMBER

TREY HANBURY

A: One of the things I love doing is to work with experts from other fields, especially engineering and economics, in ways that allow their brilliance to come to the surface. I have had the privilege of working with some of the best engineers and economists in the country to develop new communications policies, many of which the FCC has adopted in ways that I like to think have helped people. I also liked the FCC because it gave me the opportunity to focus on one client and take the time you often cannot in private practice to dig deep into a subject area and gather best thoughts and ideas from talented engineers and economists, many of whom also work at the FCC and can be generous with their time and counsel.

Q: Is or was there something interesting or someone who surprised or impressed you during your career and why?

A: When I served in the FCC's International Bureau, I attended international conferences as a subject matter expert on communications matters for the United States. At the time, we were meeting with regulators and policymakers around the world extolling the virtues of competition in telecommunications markets. The issue was an easy one for me to support because competitive rivalry generates much more investment and innovation than state-owned monopolies. We came to Geneva armed with reams of data, countless case studies, exhaustive economic analysis, and endless earnest good intentions. But we immediately encountered a torrent of opposition from an assortment of countries deeply opposed to even the most modest nods in favor of competition. After months of strategizing, weeks of speeches, and countless person-to-person conversations, the opposition outflanked us. They used canny alliances and deft twists of International Telecommunication Union procedures to hold off much of what we had hoped to accomplish. After the final votes had largely cemented our loss, I went to one of the ringleaders of the opposition to find out why he was so opposed to reaching an agreement. I sensed he knew the value of competitive markets and I simply could not understand how or why such a brilliant person had fought us so long over so many weeks. With delegates from the various administrations milling about the main conference hall, I asked him why he was so opposed to what seemed like a transparently beneficial policy. He looked at me square in the eye and said simply "because we hate you." A long silence fell between us, and I had no idea what to say. He waited a few more beats and then laughed off the comment. But his words, and the way he held my gaze as the seconds ticked by, stay with me to this day. Sometimes the argument you are having is simply not about the argument you are having.

Q: What do you enjoy reading?

A: Fiction helps me think and recharge. I read Herve Le Tellier's novel, The Anomaly, recently. I like novels that take reality, twist it just a little, and see how people behave. Le Tellier's work does that brilliantly. A good mystery helps, too. Ann Cleeves' Raven Black offers slow-burning intrigue that keeps the pages turning.

Q: Can you share your perspective on the pitfalls to avoid or other career advice for those who are just getting started in the communications field?

A: Communications law seems like an enormous industry, but it is not. People stick with it. They may change jobs or specialties, but people have a way of recognizing good work and remembering it, especially if the task was not especially appealing. Bring your absolute best to every job you do. I would also suggest that you not be afraid to say you don't know something – no one knows everything and sometimes that simple admission can break the ice and allow for a deeper mentoring relationship.

Q: How has your life changed as a result of COVID-19 and what are you looking forward to doing next?

A: My grandmother died of Covid. She was this larger-than-life presence in our family and never failed to make me smile. I miss her. On a more positive but not entirely unrelated note, working remotely never seemed possible as a lawyer, but now I work from home at least twice a week. My grandmother's passing and the new-found flexibility at law firms has made me more willing and able to shift my work to different days and locales so I can spend more time with my family, and we appreciate the value of our shared time together.

We've got 17-year-old and 13-year-old children and given the demographics; we are anticipating college visit trips soon. While I admire the spunk of our son who has never met a board sport he does not totally embrace, I do hope he takes it easy, so he makes it to college a couple years after his sister.

Q: How long have you been an FCBA member, and what to you is the value of FCBA membership?

A: I've been an FCBA member for twenty years or more, at least. I've been active on a number of committees, and the value of FCBA membership to me lies in the opportunity for fellowship of other practitioners in firms, the government, and industry. I am glad to be part of such a positive, active bar, and very proud that Jenner & Block is participating in the FCBA's Diversity Pipeline program, just one of the many great things the association does.

LAW FIRM / CORPORATE

2.23.1

AVP/VP, Regulatory Affairs – CTIA – The Wireless Association is seeking a team member to join our Regulatory Affairs Department in Washington, D.C. CTIA represents the U.S. wireless communications industry and the companies throughout the mobile ecosystem that enable Americans to lead a 21st century connected life. The association's members include wireless providers, device manufacturers, suppliers as well as apps and content companies. CTIA vigorously advocates at all levels of government for policies that foster continued wireless innovation and investment. The association also coordinates the industry's voluntary best practices, hosts educational events that promote the wireless industry and co-produces the industry's leading wireless tradeshow.

The Regulatory Affairs team is responsible for engagement with the FCC and other federal agencies on issues including spectrum, infrastructure, public safety, consumer protection, accessibility, and Universal Service. The new team member will contribute to the regulatory, legal, and advocacy efforts of the Regulatory Affairs team, with responsibilities including: monitoring and analyzing Governmental initiatives and proceedings to inform Association staff and member companies on matters being considered by Federal regulatory agencies and the Executive Branch; developing strategies for filings and engagement with the FCC and regulatory agencies and departments; advocating the Association's positions on regulatory policy issues before the FCC and other Federal Government agencies; representing CTIA and member companies before Federal agencies, at industry events, and other venues; managing engagement with external consultants and counsel; and supporting development and implementation of policy discussions at CTIA events.

Candidates must have a law degree, and possess strong writing, research, communications, and organization skills. Substantial experience at the FCC and/or a law firm is preferred. Experience with wireless and spectrum issues is preferred. Hiring is for either Vice President or Assistant Vice President based on experience.

CTIA is an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workplace, and does not discriminate on the basis of age, sex, color, race, national origin, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, family responsibilities, marital status, personal appearance, veteran status, political affiliation, matriculation, genetic information, pregnancy or related conditions, disability or any other characteristic protected by law.

Tech and Telecom Policy Counsel -

Multicultural Media, Telecom and Internet Council (MMTC). This role will be responsible for monitoring MMTC's core policy areas of engagement at the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), Federal Trade Commission (FTC), National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA), Capitol Hill, the US Department of Labor (DOL), the Biden White House, and other relevant areas concerning diversity in the media, telecom and tech sectors.

Core Responsibilities

- Develop and file comments across all of MMTC's focus areas: 1) Technology, Privacy, and Civil Rights in the Digital Age; 2) Broadband Infrastructure, Connectivity, and Digital Inclusion; 3) Media Ownership and Multicultural Content Diversity; 4) Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment; 5) Upskilling Tomorrow's Workforce.

- Develop and maintain relationships and substance ensuring MMTC remains the "go to" organization for technology, media and telecommunications law (TMT), policy issues involving multicultural communities, and antitrust and competition issues from the minority business perspective.
- Monitor Capitol Hill legislation related to the House Energy and Commerce Committee, House Financial Services Committee, Congressional Black Caucus, Congressional Hispanic Caucus, Congressional Asian Caucus and other caucuses related to diversity.
- Serve as a spokesperson on panels and industry events as a subject matter expert.
- Provide direction and insight on the internet access, affordability and literacy within marginalized communities and Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) and Minority Serving Institutions (MSI).
- Social media engagement, proficiency and interest are preferred.

Experience, Knowledge and Skills

- Candidate must be a licensed attorney with 5-10 years of telecommunications and background.

- Must have 3+ years of practicing within a law firm or legal department.
- Prefer 10+ years of telecommunications, technology, regulatory and legislative branch experience.
- Must have knowledge and context of the cross-section of telecommunications, technology and policy issues addressed by MMTC.
- A self-starter who is able to multi-task and effectively manage an intensive external work plan, as well as relationships with a wide range of partners and stakeholders.
- Illustrate performance as a leader and team player who is able to work with flexibility and efficiency in a fast-paced environment.
- Access to key MMTC stakeholders and previous experience and success establishing working relationships is a plus.
- Must be licensed in one of the 50 states or DC.
- Able to maintain confidentiality, sound judgment, integrity and discretion a must.
- Strong knowledge of the Microsoft Office Suite (i.e., Word, Excel, PowerPoint) and other technology platforms.

MMTC is an Equal-Opportunity and Affirmative Action Employer and seeks a diverse pool of candidates for this position.

Applicants should send a resume and cover letter to Robert Branson at rbranson@mmtconline.org.

FCBA Unplugged

FCBA UNPLUGGED is a podcast series for and about our beloved FCBA community. FCBA Unplugged features a series of fun, informal conversations between host Kelly Donohue, a Public Policy Manager at Facebook and co-chair of the FCBA's Membership and Marketing Committee, and you, our FCBA members! While it's certainly no proxy for in-person events, it's a fun opportunity to collectively check in with our FCBA friends and family while we are all working from home in our pajama bottoms, and maybe discover a few hidden talents along the way.

HOW CAN I LISTEN AND SUPPORT THE SHOW? We're available on Spotify, Apple Podcasts, on the FCBA website - <https://www.fcba.org/products-services/podcast>, and at <https://www.buzzsprout.com/1458427>. Please tune in, leave a review, and tell the world about the show on Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn, and Twitter!

CAN I BE ON THE SHOW? If you have ideas for topics or guests, or would like to be on the show yourself, send Kelly an email at kellydonohue@fb.com. The suggestion box is open!
