PRESIDENT'S Message

I had hoped that this column could be completely written by ChatGPT. But the AI couldn't deliver the goods in a way that the eleven readers of this column are accustomed to, so score one for the humans – at least for now (but see below!).

Two highlights this month:

- Women's Summit. Session II of the women's summit was an incredible gathering. Many congratulations to the Women's Leadership Committee for organizing such a timely and thoughtful event. But wait, there's more! Session III is coming up on June 1 and will focus on networking. More details will be announced soon!
- randomcoffee As detailed on page 11, our first round of RandomCoffee was a great success. The positive feedback from members across the country has been tremendous. The great news is that this is a month-to-month program. Keep an eye out for the next email and sign up to connect with a fellow FCBA member! #raisingourcup to raise our bar.

Finally, here's ChatGPT's response to this prompt "write a poem about the federal communications bar association."

*In the world of communications law,
Where rules and regulations can leave one in awe,
There exists a group with a noble mission,
To navigate the legal terrain with precision.*

*The Federal Communications Bar Association,
Is a community of legal professionals with dedication,
To promoting an understanding of the industry,
And advocating for policies that serve with equity.*

*Their expertise extends far and wide,
From spectrum allocation to net neutrality's tide,
Their impact has been felt in many a court,
As they defend the rights of all who resort.*

*From lawyers to regulators, their membership is vast,
United in their quest for fairness to last,
With events and conferences to foster debate,
They bring together voices from every state.*

*So here's to the FCBA, their work is crucial,
To ensuring our communication systems remain useful,
May their efforts continue to guide us all,
Towards a future where our connections stand tall.*

Not bad ChatGPT ... not bad. #raisingourbar

Thursday, April 20, 2:00 – 4:00 p.m. ET The State of Federalism in Communications

The FCBA State and Local Practice Committee will sponsor a CLE on Thursday, April 20 from 2:00 – 4:00 p.m. ET entitled The State of Federalism in Communications. This program will be held virtually via the Zoom platform.

The FCBA will apply for 2.0 hours of MCLE credit from the VA Bar. This program has not yet been approved.

If you have any issues, please contact Elizabeth Hagerty at elizabeth@fcba.org.

Agenda

This CLE program will examine the current state of regulation among the federal, state and local jurisdictions relative to wireline and wireless communications. Regulation of the communications industry has long been a model of federalism, with complementary regulation and actions occurring at each level of government. It has not, however, been without periodic conflict or controversy. Where the lines of division stand today, and where they may lie in the future, will be among the topics addressed by this timely program.

2:00 – 2:05 p.m.

Join us for exciting and informative discussions of the latest cyber threats, planning for and responding to cyber incidents, cybersecurity in space, and practical tips on how to protect companies from attacks before they happen. Panelists include leading experts from the government, industry and law firms.

The FCLJ is Looking for Articles

The Federal Communications Law Journal (FCLJ), the official academic journal of the FCBA, is hosted by The George Washington University Law School. It has long been an important source of legal scholarship on communications issues, and the FCBA is proud to offer the journal as a benefit to our members.

The Federal Communications Law Journal (FCLJ) editorial board at The George Washington University Law School is seeking article submissions for potential publication in the upcoming issues of the FCLJ. Interested members may submit articles to the Senior Articles Editor, Micah Leval (fcjlarticles@law.gwu.edu). Articles may also be submitted through ExpressO or Scholastica. For general inquiries about the FCLJ, please contact the Editor-in-Chief, Julia Dacy (fcjl@law.gwu.edu).

Monday, May 15, 3:00 – 5:15 p.m. ET FCC Outage Reporting: Evolving Obligations and Expectations

The FCBA Homeland Security and Emergency Communications Committee will sponsor a CLE on Monday, May 15 from 3:00 – 5:15 p.m. ET entitled FCC Outage Reporting: Evolving Obligations and Expectations. This program will be held virtually via the Zoom platform.

Communications services are critical tools during emergencies and the Federal Communications Commission has adopted, modified and enforced a variety of rules that require service providers to report outages of services in order to facilitate situational awareness among emergency responders and managers. This CLE will feature speakers discussing the evolution and direction of these obligations.

The FCBA will apply for 2.0 hours of MCLE credit from the VA Bar. This program has not yet been approved.

so you don't miss the opportunity to participate in the walking tour of Colonial Williamsburg. For about three hours, Colonial Williamsburg official tour guides will escort you through the historic village while sharing the history of this restored and reconstructed 18th century Capital on the eve of the American Revolution. While stopping to visit significant buildings within this living history museum, you will hear inspirational stories of our nation's founding men and women.

Silver Hand Meadery Tasting. Join us for a 45-minute sensory experience where we'll explore the aromas and flavors of honey, the main ingredient for mead. Mead is one of the most historic fermented drinks found on Earth, having the creativity of craft beer and the elegance of wine, but is in a category all its own. Learn more about the honey bee as we showcase the inner workings of an empty beehive. This activity organized by the Young Lawyers Committee will take place Saturday at 2:00 p.m. The tasting has reached capacity, but feel free to drop by the Meadery at any time!

GETTING THERE

Kingsmill is about 3 hours from DC by car without traffic. We STRONGLY advise that you leave very early on Friday morning (or even Thursday afternoon) to avoid traffic issues. For those that don't have cars or prefer not to drive, Amtrak provides daily service to Williamsburg from Washington, DC and points north.

ABOUT KINGSMILL

Kingsmill is situated on 2,900 protected acres along the James River, 150 miles from downtown Washington, DC. The resort offers many unique experiences. To learn more about Kingsmill and its many amenities and activities, go to: <https://www.kingsmill.com/>.

Williamsburg offers tons of exciting adventures and activities. You can step back in time and relive the days of Colonial Virginia, go to Busch Gardens, or explore a variety of shops and boutiques.

If you plan to book a spa treatment, call 757-564-5353 as soon as possible. Appointments are certain to book up quickly. Guests are entitled to receive a 15% discount on spa services, based on availability. When contacting the resort for any service, be sure to mention that you will be attending the FCBA Seminar. Visit <https://www.kingsmill.com/spa/overview/> for information about the services offered.

BABYSITTING AND CHILDCARE

Please contact Kerry (kerry@fcba.org) with questions about babysitting or childcare throughout the weekend.

Privacy and Data Security Committee

Event: Lunch and Learn

Date/Time: Friday, April 21, 12:15 – 1:30 p.m. ET

Location: Virtual via the Zoom platform

Topic: Demystifying De-identified Data: Pseudonymization, Differential Privacy, and Re-Identification

Description: Although the National Strategy to Advance Privacy-Preserving Data Sharing and Analytics was just published in March, Federal agencies like the Census Bureau have been using measures such as differential privacy to prevent the reverse engineering of personally-identifiable information from public datasets for years, and academics have warned of the lack of true anonymity in purportedly anonymous data sets since 2000 or earlier. After providing attendees a crash course in what is anonymous, what is pseudonymous, and why de-identified data can sometimes be re-identified, this panel will discuss the tensions between preserving privacy and advancing research, both for social benefits and for technological innovation, and explore possible ways to have both reliable privacy and valuable research.

Speakers: Dr. Gary Howarth, Physical Scientist, NIST, Project Manager for Privacy Engineering Program; Danielle Kehl, Sr. Privacy Counsel, Cruise; Dr. Hye-Chung Kum, Prof. at Texas A&M University, Director of the Population Informatics Lab; Aaron Massey, Technologist and Sr. Policy Analyst for Ad Tech and Platforms, Future of Privacy Forum

The Federal Communications Law Journal

The Federal Communications Law Journal has long been an important source of legal scholarship on communications issues, and the FCBA is proud to offer the journal as a benefit to our members.

FCBA members may now decide how they would like to receive the journal. The FCLJ itself will continue to be published in hard copy, however, rather than receiving hard copies as a default, we'll be distributing electronic links to the content.

For those of you who would like to receive the FCLJ electronically, you don't have to do anything. We will email you a link when a new issue is published. You may also visit <http://www.fclj.org/volumes/> to view archived volumes.

For those of you who would like to receive the FCLJ in hard copy format, you should sign up for this option by following the instructions below. You must log in to your membership account and select the FCLJ subscription. Note that the hard copy journal is free, but it must be ordered through our website.

- To log in to your account, click here or go to www.fcba.org and click the Log In button.
- Click on the link to the "Online Store" on the left side of the page.
- Click on the link to the "Federal Communications Law Journal Annual Subscription". You may also type the word Journal into the Search Bar, if needed.
- Click on "Add to Cart".
- Click on "Check Out".
- Click on "Purchase Now", and you're done!

Note that we will also send out an email reminder to members about the opt-in process before each issue is published.

If you have any questions, please send an email to Elizabeth Hagerty (elizabeth@fcba.org).

FCBA Unplugged

FCBA UNPLUGGED is a podcast series for and about our beloved FCBA community. FCBA Unplugged features a series of fun, informal conversations between host Kelly Donohue, a Public Policy Manager at Facebook and co-chair of the FCBA's Membership and Marketing Committee, and you, our FCBA members! While it's certainly no proxy for in-person events, it's a fun opportunity to collectively check in with our FCBA friends and family while we are all working from home in our pajama bottoms, and maybe discover a few hidden talents along the way.

HOW CAN I LISTEN AND SUPPORT THE SHOW? We're available on Spotify, Apple Podcasts, on the FCBA website - <https://www.fcba.org/products-services/podcast>, and at <https://www.buzzsprout.com/1458427>. Please tune in, leave a review, and tell the world about the show on Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn, and Twitter!

CAN I BE ON THE SHOW? If you have ideas for topics or guests, or would like to be on the show yourself, send Kelly an email at kellydonohue@fb.com. The suggestion box is open!

To Update Your Membership Contact Information

We'd like to remind everyone that if you have any changes to your membership contact information, please contact Elizabeth Hagerty (elizabeth@fcba.org). In order to keep a cohesive look to our directory, we do not allow members to make any changes to their information themselves. Also note that we do not include prefixes or titles in any of our member listings.

RANDOM COFFEE - FCBA's New Initiative

- 168 members signed up for the inaugural round of FCBA RandomCoffee connections!
- The next sign-up email will be sent by RandomCoffee on Thursday, April 20 at 2:30 pm EDT and matches will be announced on Tuesday, April 25 at 2:30 pm EDT.
- If you don't see the email in your inbox, it may be caught in your spam filter. Please check for an email from "RandomCoffee @ FCBA" or fcba@my.random-coffee.com and allowlist the email going forward so you won't miss future RandomCoffee invitations.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS:

Kudos to whomever's idea it was for a random coffee! I had mine today over zoom and I met somebody I didn't know in the telecommunications bar! Great program.

Jeanine Poltronieri

This is such a great idea and ... thanks for bringing this opportunity to members!

Edward Carlson

It was a great first meeting and we plan to meet in person in the near future.

Kenley Joseph

I had a delightful conversation. I learned a few things I never knew before, and I hope that I was able to reciprocate. Thanks for a great idea!

Gregory M. Kennan

These are a good idea, particularly since not all members can regularly attend FCBA events as they used to when working downtown 5 days per week.

Doug Bonner

I love this idea!

Donna Epps

By: Laura Phillips

Donna Epps is a Senior Vice President with Verizon. In that role, she leads Verizon's Public Policy, Network Regulatory Strategy and Strategic Alliances Teams. These teams focus on developing Verizon's policy positions, developing and implementing Verizon's regulatory strategy to become a nationwide broadband provider and engaging with a variety of stakeholders in the consumer, think tank, academic and civil rights arenas to make sure the company's policy positions are well informed by a variety of perspectives. The team also educates outside stakeholders on policy concerns of mutual interest; provides input to think tanks on questions that would benefit from more research; and promotes good policy both inside and outside of the company. Donna is particularly proud that her team also leads the work Verizon is doing currently to engage in the various federal broadband funding programs and that they are focused on a variety of critical policy issues including privacy, spectrum, closing the digital divide, competition policy and more. Her team also is responsible for maintaining Verizon's relationship with the Biden Administration on policy matters. I was delighted to be able to spend a little time with Donna to chat about her career and perspectives.

Q: What attracted you to the field of communications?

A: I kind of stumbled into the field. When I started practicing law, my law firm had a need in the Communications group. I didn't know anything about the field, but thought I'd give it a try. I absolutely loved it. I loved the fast-moving and cutting-edge nature of the communications/tech policy work. I appreciated the fact that this industry actually is moving the country forward by bringing life-changing innovation to society. I also felt good about working in an industry that has powered so many solutions for everyday people and continues to, because connectivity impacts every facet of our lives.

Q: Tell us about the various places you've worked through the years.

A: I started my career as a Public Relations professional for Merck. I then went to law school and got my first legal job as a law clerk in federal court in the Central District of CA. I then started as an associate at a large law firm, Covington & Burling, where I stayed for several years in DC before moving to Verizon. I've been at Verizon for twenty-three years, although when I started it was known as Bell Atlantic and the big legal and policy issue of the day for the company was getting its Section 271 applications granted to offer long distance services. Seems quaint to remember that.

Q: Have things unfolded in your career more or less the way you planned?

A: Not at all. I didn't even realize public policy positions such as mine existed when I got out of law school. I really stumbled into the policy field after spending a few years in the legal department at Verizon. I am so glad that I found it because there were aspects of doing PR that are a bit similar, but when you meld law and policy into the mix you have an opportunity to use a range of skills to persuade or advocate and to communicate. It's intellectually stimulating.

Q: What's the most interesting or challenging thing that you've done in your current position?

A: Perhaps the most meaningful thing I've done in my career is to work with a broad coalition of organizations to help close the digital divide by providing a historic government subsidy to low-income people to purchase broadband. The program, known as the Affordable Connectivity Program, was historic because the federal government had never authorized a broadband subsidy for low-income people. I had the pleasure of working with a broad coalition of diverse organizations from the public and private sector, including groups from different partisan affiliations that typically don't agree on much, to urge Congress to take this important and unprecedented step. It was great to see so many different groups came together to help millions of low-income people get connected to broadband. It's one of the most important steps the country has taken to date to close the digital divide and in a time when there are so many divisions in society, it was great to see people come together on an important issue. The country could experience the benefits of this program for years to come if the program is extended.

Q: Is or was there something interesting or someone who surprised or impressed you during your career and why?

A: I have been very impressed by the policy philosophy shared by the Verizon senior leadership. Since my earliest days here, senior leaders, including our general counsels and DC office leaders have taken the view that our government affair-related teams should figure out the best policy for society because if we did that, it would also be the best policy for Verizon. They truly believed in putting the public interest first and that by supporting policies that did that, the company would benefit. I think many people have a jaded view of corporate America and would be surprised to know that senior executives at a large company would have this philosophy and would instruct their teams accordingly.

Q: What do you enjoy reading?

A: I am a bit of a personal finance geek so I like reading personal finance books like the "Simple Path to Wealth" by J.L. Collins or “Buy This, Not That” by Sam Dogen. I’m also a history buff so I love reading biographies like “Team of Rivals” about President Lincoln’s cabinet by Doris Kearns Goodwin. And to top it off, books on leadership and human connection are always a favorite; I particularly enjoy works by Brené Brown, who studies human connection, which is the study of our ability to be empathetic and belong.

DONNA EPPS

Q: Can you share your perspective on the pitfalls to avoid or other career advice for those who are just getting started in the communications field?

A: This may sound like a cliché but building meaningful relationships is so important. You obviously should perform at a high level and do everything with excellence. But it’s also incredibly important to develop relationships within your organization with people who can help you develop and who can speak on your behalf when you aren’t in the room. Having a sponsor in an organization is critical. But it’s also important to have relationships with an array of people outside of your department, and at all levels, who can speak to your effectiveness and performance. Oftentimes, we think we can put our heads down and just do a good job and people will notice. But the higher up you go, people will assume that you are doing a good job and that you are competent. What really will separate you is the relationships that you build because people will be more likely to think of you when opportunities arise if they have a good relationship with you.

The other thing I have learned over time is that everyone needs to know their value, find their voice and use it as early as you can. I think many women in particular have a narrative in their own head that stops them from offering their ideas very freely. I think even if you feel the fear, speak out anyway. Most of the time it will be a positive contribution, and even when it is not, it’s useful because you have to learn to pick yourself up and move on. We have to learn not to internalize our mistakes or failures.

Q: What is something interesting that you about you that people are not generally aware of that you’re willing to share?

A: I started my career as a public relations specialist for a pharmaceutical company. I majored in journalism with a concentration in PR in college. I took a year off before going to law school to try out public relations because I really enjoyed the corporate PR internships I had while college. One was with the predecessor to Merck Pharmaceuticals at a company called Burroughs Wellcome. The company developed the first drug to treat AIDS, called AZT, in the early days of the AIDS epidemic. The drug was really expensive, so the company faced a big public backlash complete with protestors and sit-ins on the front steps of the company. I joined the company right after that, but it was exciting to be a part of a PR team that was faced with such a huge challenge from a crisis communications standpoint, and to learn how to navigate such a high-profile issue. I ultimately decided to go to law school, but I spent an exciting year in corporate PR.

Q: How has your life changed as a result of COVID-19?

A: I have a much more flexible schedule now because I usually work a few days from home. This allows me to structure my work differently. I generally try to reserve work that requires a lot of solo time and deep thought like writing or analysis for days when I’m working from home and have the benefit of quiet time with few interruptions. I try to schedule meetings and projects that require cross-functional collaborations with my colleagues for the days I’m in the office. Before Covid, I wasn’t as intentional about managing my calendar in this way. Like many others, I find the flexibility of working from home a few days a week helps me to have greater control over my personal life. By cutting out my lengthy commute a few days a way I am more productive at work and at home.

Q: How long have you been an FCBA member, and what to you is the value of FCBA membership?

A: I have been a member of FCBA for over 20 years. I joined as soon as I started as a junior associate at my law firm. I value the opportunity to network with other members of the bar that I may not have an opportunity to meet or spend much time with in the normal course of my work. I have built meaningful personal and professional relationships through FCBA. It’s also incredibly impactful to have such a large bar pool the resources of the companies and law firms represented in the bar to give back to aspiring future professionals through FCBA’s many scholarship and mentorship activities. I served a stint on the FCBA Foundation and had an opportunity to see first-hand how FCBA scholarships change the lives of so many talented students.

4.23.1

Communications Associate 2022-3239 – Nelson Mullins is seeking a Communications Associate to join its Communications group in the Washington, DC office. As an AmLaw100 firm, this will offer a unique opportunity to a lateral associate who wants to be part of a dynamic and growing team.

A Day in the Life

With at least 4 years of experience, you have a background in communications and technology law and policy. As part of the team in Washington, DC, you will work with colleagues and a diverse array of clients on:

- drafting pleadings and advocating at the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and state public utility commissions;
- advising clients on federal Universal Service Fund programs and contributions, including representation in audits, investigations and enforcement;
- developing products with consideration of regulatory classification and associated opportunities, risks and burdens;
- creating consumer facing agreements and policies, including terms and conditions, privacy policies, transparency statements and accessibility policies
- preparing and prosecuting applications before the FCC, USAC and state public utility commissions;
- negotiating and drafting of communications, IoT and technology contracts;
- seeking authorization for mergers, acquisitions and other transactions from state public utility commissions, the FCC and other Executive Branch agencies; and
- litigation and dispute resolution involving communications-related matters.

All candidates are asked to submit the following application materials online at <https://careers-nelsonmullins.icims.com/jobs/3239/communications-associate/job> :

- Cover letter
- Resume
- Copy of law school transcript
- Writing samples

We Know You

As part of our team, you will have a high degree of responsibility in counseling clients on legal, policy, compliance and emerging technology matters. You have experience in communications and consumer protection matters, including regulatory proceedings before the FCC, USAC, state commissions and state attorneys general. You have a keen interest in communications and technology issues, and you work well independently or as part of a team, depending on the nature of the matter. You have excellent academic credentials with strong writing, analytical, and communications skills. You are a member of the DC Bar or eligible to be admitted to the DC Bar.

Corporate Counsel - Lawful Intercept Compliance – Amazon is seeking a talented attorney with experience in lawful intercept for broadband internet and telecommunications providers. This attorney will join the Amazon Legal team supporting Project Kuiper, which is an initiative to launch a constellation of Low Earth Orbit satellites that will provide low-latency, high-speed broadband connectivity to unserved and underserved communities around the world.

As a stellar Corporate Counsel, you should have significant experience counseling clients in one or more countries on the implementation of data localization and lawful intercept requirements. Experience with data localization, interconnection, and other compliance requirements is also a plus, but not required. The successful candidate will have a strong knowledge base of communications networks, and an insatiable curiosity for learning new technologies and legal issues. Working closely with the Kuiper team and across Amazon, this Corporate Counsel will develop out-of-this-world strategies for handling legal issues in creative, business-centric ways, as well as build processes that address risk and allow Kuiper the flexibility and freedom to move quickly. Your day-to-day work will involve tackling complex legal issues on a global scale, frequently addressing ambiguous multi-jurisdictional legal frameworks, and ensuring our systems exceed the expectations of regulators and our customers.

We are looking for someone who is enthusiastic about technology, enjoys being continually challenged, and demonstrates sound judgment even in ambiguous situations.

This position may be based in Arlington, VA (HQ2), Redmond, WA, or New York, NY, Earth. Some travel, domestic and international, may be required. No intergalactic travel is yet required.

Export Control Requirement:

Due to applicable export control laws and regulations, candidates must be a U.S. citizen or national, U.S. permanent resident (i.e., current Green Card holder), or lawfully admitted into the U.S. as a refugee or granted asylum.

BASIC QUALIFICATIONS

- J.D. degree from an accredited law school and active membership in one state bar
- 5+ years experience as a regulatory or compliance attorney
- 3+ years experience representing communications companies on regulatory or compliance matters

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

- A mix of law firm and in-house experience a plus
- Ability to work independently while being able to contribute successfully to cross-functional teams
- Excited and passionate about innovating on behalf of our customers
- Strong written and oral communication skills
- A good sense of humor (although to be fair, several of us only think we are funny)

4.23.3

Senior Manager, Regulatory Affairs – Davis Wright Tremaine LLP is looking for a Senior Manager, Regulatory Affairs to join our team in either Washington D.C., New York, or Seattle office.

This position will work directly with the Communications Practice Group to assist clients with regulatory compliance matters for the firm's communications and technology clients, including their participation in Universal Service Fund (USF) mechanisms and other regulatory regimes, as may be assigned. In this role, the Senior Manager will work with the relationship partners to gather and organize information related to the clients' operations and compliance, research and follow industry and regulatory activities to help identify advocacy points, and work with the relationship partners to ensure clients' compliance needs are satisfied.

On a typical day you will:

- Work with clients to assist with their efforts to comply with federal and state regulatory compliance matters, including USF contribution obligations and disbursement programs, broadband funding and challenges, FCC and state PUC reporting, recordkeeping and compliance obligations
- Identify and analyze innovative opportunities to help clients decrease cost and maximize returns via participation in USF and broadband funding programs
