

ANNOUNCING THE TMT LAW & POLICY PIPELINE CLASS OF 2025
AND THE TMT LAW & POLICY CERTIFICATE PROGRAM GRADUATES

The FCBA's TMT Pipeline Program Commemorates the Placement of 73 Interns and Recognizes 96 TMT Certificate Program Graduates since 2020

The Federal Communications Bar Association (FCBA – The Tech Bar) is pleased to announce that its TMT Law & Policy Pipeline Program (Pipeline Program), currently in its fifth year, has now facilitated the placement of 73 first-year law school students from 26 different law schools in leading law firms, companies, trade associations, and nonprofit organizations in the technology, media, and telecom (TMT) sector. In addition, 96 first-year students have participated in the TMT Law & Policy Certificate Program, the academic enrichment and skills development component of the Pipeline Program, covering key principles, statutes, and regulations that are the foundation of TMT law and policy.

Congratulations to the 2025 Class of TMT Law & Policy Pipeline Interns and the TMT Certificate Program Graduates!

Diane Holland, FCBA Immediate Past President and Pipeline Program Committee Co-chair said: "It has been such a privilege to help develop this pipeline for law students to experience working in such a dynamic industry sector. And the seeds we first planted five years ago are already bearing fruit, with several alumni from our first class accepting full-time employment with participating employers."

Lauren Harris, a graduate from the inaugural class of the TMT Law and Policy Certificate Program and currently an associate at Davis Wright Tremaine LLP was a keynote at one of this year's sessions and shared her personal story concerning the value of the Pipeline Program both professionally and personally.

The FCBA TMT Pipeline Internship Program and the TMT Law & Policy Certificate Program were created to attract, develop, train, and support first-year law students with unique experiences and perspectives interested in pursuing legal careers in TMT law and policy.
