PRESIDENT'S Message

HELLO, FCBA!

We've officially sprung forward and finally are enjoying some warmer weather. In the DelNero-Heins household, that means open windows that are quickly occupied by our two excitable orange tabby cats. They 'chirp' at the birds, stare down dogs, and delight neighborhood children.

Orange tabby cats aren't the only ones re-energized by the change in seasons. The onset of spring also means a busy and exciting season for the FCBA.

Under the leadership of Lee Petro and a dedicated team of committee co-chairs, the 32nd Annual National Telecommunications and Technology Moot Court Competition took place last month at Catholic Law. I enjoyed co-judging the final round with fellow FCBA members Angie Kronenberg and Annick Banoun. We all were impressed by the finalists—Fayth Wisheart and Victoria Kelly of UVA Law and Rachel Giedraitis and Makayla Arthur of South Texas College of Law.

Next up is the Seventh Annual FCBA Women's Summit, taking place this Thursday, March 12 at NCTA. I'm a big fan of this event. This year's title is "Women Who Are Shaping the Future of Tech and Policy." Living up to that name, the program will feature conversations with FCC Commissioners Anna Gomez and Olivia Trusty, along with opportunities to connect with colleagues across our bar.

This also is the time of year when we seek nominations for the FCBA's "Excellence in Government Service" Award. Dating back to 2008, this Award recognizes the outstanding contributions of federal government employees working in our field. Please send nominations to kerry@fcba.org by this Friday, March 13.

We've also got a strong slate of CLEs coming up. To highlight just one of them, the FCBA Intellectual Property Committee has organized a CLE on Wednesday, March 18, "AI in 2031 (with an IP focus)". The program has a bold agenda that looks beyond today's IP and regulatory battlegrounds to consider what the next five years may hold. The CLE will feature thought leaders and futurists from government, industry, and academia.

Looking ahead, I hope to see you all at the FCBA Annual Seminar, May 15–17, at The Hotel Hershey in Hershey, Pennsylvania. The Annual Seminar committee has planned a formidable lineup of speakers that will soon be released. Please don't wait to register: the FCBA group room rate is only guaranteed through Monday, April 6.

Wishing you a great start to spring – and as always, thank you for your continued support of the FCBA.

WELCOME AND INTRODUCTIONS

Daniel Waggoner, Partner, Davis Wright Tremaine

Artificial intelligence may be the most ubiquitous topic among startups, newsletters, and industry speakers today, yet few programs look beyond today's IP and regulatory battlegrounds to consider what the next five years may hold. This FCBA seminar will take on the role of futurists, examining how internet and communications law and regulation are shaping AI and intellectual property (IP) as the legal landscape evolves toward 2031. Drawing on insights from former government officials, leading academics, and experienced legal practitioners, the panels will assess the current AI, regulatory, and IP environment and chart a path forward.

3:05 – 4:00 p.m.

BAND-AIDS OR BREAKTHROUGH: WHERE DOES LAW AND REGULATION STAND TODAY?

We could never have predicted how fast technology would grow against existing IP laws and regulations. In the last five years, we have seen AI systems increasingly produce synthetic data, personas, voices, inventive concepts, and creative styles that test the foundation of IP. This panel will explore the boundaries that have been challenged in U.S. IP law and what legal and regulatory approaches have been taken to address the fast-changing innovation landscape. Are they Band-Aids or breakthroughs?

Moderator:

Priya Nair, Associate Attorney, Law Office of Chun T. Wright

Panelists:

Chris Suarez, Partner, Steptoe LLP

Jim Rosenfeld, Partner, Davis Wright Tremaine

Lauren Chamblee, Assistant General Counsel, Open Innovation (Intellectual Property Group), Microsoft

4:00 – 5:00 p.m.

BLUEPRINTS FOR WHAT'S NEXT: WHERE ARE THE LAW AND REGULATION GOING?

As AI becomes embedded in communications infrastructure, media ecosystems, and online platforms, existing communications and internet regulatory frameworks are being tested. This panel examines how U.S. communications and internet law, including FCC oversight, Section 230, and the DMCA, may evolve in response to synthetic media and platform-integrated AI, with a particular focus on IP. Looking beyond current legal approaches, the discussion will explore how policymakers and practitioners can begin preparing now by identifying the legal foundations, guardrails, and institutional designs needed for what comes next.

Moderator:

Luis Zambrano Ramos, Technology and Telecommunications Policy Advisor, U.S. Federal Government

Panelists:

Russ Hanser, SVP, General Counsel & Chief Legal Officer, NCTA

Amanda Levendowski Tepski, Professor of Law and the Founding Director of the Intellectual Property and Information Policy (iPIP) Clinic, Georgetown Law Center

Eric Goldman, Associate Dean of Research, Professor of Law and Co-Director, High Tech Law Institute

The FCBA is working on its 2026 scholarship and stipend programs, which will award hundreds of thousands of dollars to outstanding high school and law school students, thanks to the generous contributions of FCBA members, industry sponsors, and others. Below are the details of the programs, including information on applications.

If you have any questions about these programs, please contact Stephanie Budaker at stephanie@fcba.org.

2026 LAW SCHOOL SUMMER INTERNSHIP STIPEND PROGRAM

The FCBA Foundation will award stipends to law students employed as unpaid summer interns through its Law School Summer Internship Stipend Program. The program provides stipends to students from around the country who want to dedicate their time and talent over the summer to government service in areas related to telecommunications, media, and technology (TMT) law, including broadcasting, cable, information technology, television, telephony, satellite, and wireless. It also can include work at government/public sector entities addressing other communications-related areas, including internet law and policy, privacy, cybersecurity, copyright, emerging technologies, and related policy and legal issues.

The Law School Summer Stipend Program awards stipends of up to $10,000 per student; last year, the program provided $16,500 in support to six outstanding law students. The Foundation considers funding from other sources in making award decisions and generally will adjust its stipend awards based on total funding received.

The application for the stipend will be available online from Tuesday, February 17, until Tuesday, March 17, 2026. The application can be accessed at: <https://webportalapp.com/sp/login/fcbastipend>.

2026 LAW SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

The FCBA Foundation Law School Scholarship Program provides financial assistance to rising second- or third-year students currently enrolled in accredited law schools in the United States who have a demonstrated interest in pursuing a career in TMT law. In 2025, the Foundation awarded $20,000 in scholarships to seven outstanding law students. The scholarships are payable to the applicable law school in one lump sum to help the student with tuition or other education-related expenses.

The application for the scholarship will be available online from Monday, February 9, until Tuesday, March 17, 2026. The application can be accessed at: <https://webportalapp.com/sp/fcbalawsscholarship>.

The Foundation plans to notify successful applicants regarding their scholarship awards by mid-May.

Kat Scott

By: Laura Phillips

Kat Scott is a partner in Wiley's TMT and Privacy, Cyber & Data Governance practices but there is much more to her than that. I got to know Kat a bit several years ago when we were among the co-chairs of the FCBA's Privacy and Data Security Committee, and I thought it was high time for Kat to be featured in this column. It's no surprise that Kat spends her time assisting and counseling enterprises that need to understand and comply with a range of privacy laws and regulations and if you spend any time and all talking to her about what she does, it is plain that she genuinely enjoys this work. It was a delight to connect and catch up.

Q: What attracted you to the field of communications?

A: I was a Media Studies major in my undergraduate career at UVA. I have always been very interested in how technology and media affects how we lead our individual lives and more broadly how they play a role in shaping society. I spent a couple of years after college canvassing prior to deciding to go to law school. And in law school, I was drawn to regulatory law – so Communications Law was a great fit. I went to the Washington College of Law at American University, where I was able to learn about federal administrative law from professors who had fascinating experience and expertise, including Professor Jeffrey Lubbers and Professor Victoria Phillips. The cherry on top was my work at Wiley during my 2L summer, where I was able to work with amazing colleagues and clients in our TMT group. I'm fortunate to have found communications and privacy as my "niche."

Q: Tell us about the various places you've worked through the years.

A: I have had the pleasure of working at Wiley for my entire legal career, starting as a summer associate in my second year of law school. During law school, I was a law clerk at the Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC), and before law school, I worked for a non-profit running and helping to manage canvass offices. I truly love canvassing, and it gave me a lot of the skills that I still use today in day-to-day practice, including asking and answering tough questions.

Q: Have things unfolded in your career more or less the way you planned?

A: Actually, yes. My goal early on in my legal career was to develop a practice around the issues and topics that interested me most—privacy and cyber. As these topics grew in prominence and complexity across all sectors—including the Communications sector—I have been able to focus my work on this ever-changing space. I appreciate my colleagues at the firm that supported and encouraged me to pursue these areas early on.

Q: What's the most interesting or challenging thing that you've done in your current position?

A: My favorite thing about my job is that most everything I get to do is both interesting and challenging. Top of my list includes: helping companies navigate the growing patchwork of state privacy laws and develop universal policies and practices that can be scaled; helping companies develop cool new products and features that deliver true innovation while remaining compliant with legal and regulatory frameworks—and watching those products and features come to life; and learning about the technical intricacies of the various technologies and tools we provide legal advice on to help bridge the gaps between legal and business and shape meaningful policy. It's really satisfying to be part of that process, and it is certainly never boring.

Q: Is or was there something interesting or someone who surprised or impressed you during your career and why?

A: What has always impressed me is the willingness of my colleagues—at Wiley and throughout the FCBA—to take time to know and help each other. I certainly have benefited from professional acts of kindness—from informal coffees and check-ins to more in-depth collaboration and mentorship—and I have watched others throughout our bar benefit from the same.

Q: What do you enjoy reading?

A: The short answer: anything that my best friend recommends! The long answer: My best friend and I have known each other since we were 5 years old. We live in different cities and have very different day-to-day lives, so we try to read the same books to stay connected. She is an avid reader and outpaces me significantly, so I just try to keep up! The good news is, I am not picky and I can become engrossed in just about any topic or genre. Two books that have been out a few years but that I really enjoyed and would recommend were The Bee Sting by Paul Murray and Tomorrow, and Tomorrow and Tomorrow by Gaberille Zevin.

Q: Is there something (a hobby or other tidbit) people don't know about you that you are willing to share?

A: I love puzzles. My favorite thing to do is sit around a puzzle table with friends and family, listen to music, and puzzle. The brighter the colors, the better the puzzle. I tend to stick to 1000-piece puzzles and like to do them on my own or with my family. Puzzles are so clear in terms of feedback – the piece either fits or it doesn't. There's something quite calming in that for me.

Q: Can you share your perspective on the pitfalls to avoid or other career advice for those who are just getting started in the communications field?

A: Two key principles have guided (and continue to guide) me: consistently do excellent work and build strong and authentic relationships with the people that are around you. While everyone's career path is unique, I think recognizing the value of and trying to apply these principles in a work setting will serve everyone well.

Q: How has your life changed as a result of COVID-19 and what are you looking forward to doing next?

A: Like so many others, I think that the biggest change for me during the pandemic was my family life merging with my professional life. At the start of the pandemic, I was a senior associate, and my kids were 5, 3, and 2 years old. I spent that time incredibly busy at work, and incredibly busy trying (with questionable success) to fill the void left from daycare and school being closed. I am grateful for the time I got to spend with my kids during that period, and also for the lessons I learned about time management, delegation, and teamwork. And as we have emerged from our cocoons, I am especially grateful for being able to do the fun but exhausting day-to-day activities of parenting—from Girl Scout cookie sales to rec soccer—with a wonderful community.

Q: How long have you been an FCBA member, and what to you is the value of FCBA membership?

A: I joined the FCBA in 2013. Throughout the years, the FCBA has provided me with a wonderful community of colleagues and friends and a valuable source of informative and educational programming. For many years, I have served as a co-chair on the Privacy and Data Security Committee, where I have been able to meet others in the Communications and Tech sectors who focus on privacy and help to put together CLEs on a range of fun topics. I think that the FCBA provides incredible value to its members as a place to learn to network and to have some fun.

Julie Ann Veach (1970-2026)

Julie Ann Veach, former Chief of the FCC's Wireline Competition Bureau and member of the FCBA's Executive Committee, died January 31 at her home in Washington, D.C. She was 55.

Julie Ann Veach

She held a number of positions at the Commission during a 14-year tenure, rising from Attorney Adviser in 2001 to Deputy General Counsel and then to Bureau Chief from 2012 to 2015. While at the Commission, and after, she was a mentor to many across the communications bar.

Julie was raised in West Lafayette, Indiana. As a high school student, she played the French horn for the Lafayette Symphony Orchestra and won a prestigious Allan W. Keller Competition award. She taught music to support herself while an undergraduate at Purdue University, and was the first in her immediate family to earn a college degree.

She took her bachelor's degree from Purdue in 1993 graduating Phi Beta Kappa; and her law degree in 1997 on a scholarship from Indiana University's Maurer School of Law, where she was a member of the Order of the Coif and Senior Managing Editor of the Indiana Law Journal. Julie then clerked for the Honorable Michael S. Kanne of the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit before moving to Washington, D.C. in 1998 to take a position at Wilmer, Cutler, and Pickering (now WilmerHale).

While at the FCC, Julie helped shape foundational national policies on broadband, universal service, and emerging communications technologies. She played a central role in modernizing universal service rules for the broadband era, redefining broadband to meet contemporary usage; participated in the executive-level working group that led the E-rate modernization efforts of 2014; and guided dozens of significant FCC orders.

As Deputy General Counsel, she oversaw the work of the Administrative Law Division, which advises on communications, administrative and general law, and led reinstatement of the FCC's Attorney Honors Program, which continues today. As Bureau Chief, she oversaw a staff of more than 150 professionals, mentored young attorneys, and won praise for her management skills and can-do attitude.

In 2015, Julie joined HWG as a partner. There, she advised wireline, wireless, VoIP, telecommunications relay service, and cloud-based service providers. She helped clients navigate FCC rulemakings, transactions, and enforcement matters.

Besides serving on the FCBA Executive Committee in 2024-2025, she previously co-chaired the Judicial Practice and Wireline Committees.

In 2007, while pursuing her professional career and raising two small children, Julie was diagnosed with a rare sinus cancer and endured a year of intense radiation and chemotherapy. Although she beat the odds and the cancer, in the decades that followed the effects of the cancer treatment steadily tested her health. But she persevered through each setback to thrive as a lawyer, wife, mother, musician (having turned to piano), and superb chef.

Among the many expressions of sadness on her passing, John Nakahata, HWG Chair, said: "Julie was a superb lawyer, leader, teacher, and mentor, and was one of the nicest people you could ever meet. She approached every challenge with honesty, professionalism, and grace. Her greatest legacy is the many people she trained, supported, and influenced throughout her extraordinary career. She always reached out to help others develop. She will be profoundly missed."

Julie is survived by her husband of 24 years, Roger, their two children, her mother, and five younger siblings.

The Julie Veach Internship Fund has been established by the FCBA in her memory. Please see instructions on how to donate.

The family is holding private memorial services. HWG will be hosting a celebration of Julie's life later this Spring.

The Julie Veach Internship Fund

In memory of Julie, HWG and Julie's friends have established the Julie Veach Internship Fund to provide FCBA Foundation stipends to law students accepting unpaid summer internships at the FCC, and especially Wireline Competition Bureau or Office of General Counsel. To make a contribution, please follow the instruction below.

- SIGN IN with your member credentials in order to link it to your account.
- Once in your profile, click Donations in the top menu bar for a list of funds.
- Select the Julie Veach Internship Fund.
